Main Street Madness Teens' 350th bash successful; No police incidents, one injury and Perry Colmore

Organizers estimate that between 4,000 and 5,000 people partied at a kids' 350th anniversary celebration on Main Street last Saturday. Main Street Madness offered the teens of Andover some rare opportunities for a day. They skateboarded on Main Street and were encouraged to dunk a police lieutenant in a tank of water. They won T-shirts in blueberry-pie-eating contests, and they shot baskets with a UMass basketball star. They played volleyball in donated sand dumped in the municipal parking lot behind Old Town Hall. The sand, 100 cubic yards of it, was later dumped at Poms Pond, where it will be used as fill.

Main Street Madness "was a complete success," said Bill Fahey, the town's Youth Services director, who with Peg Campbell of the Department of Community Services and scores of teen-agers masterminded the event. "It was just a blast too."

Main Street was closed to traffic from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. The merchants had complained that they lose business when the street is closed, but Selectmen Chairman James Barenboim decided the event would stay on Main Street. It was the kids' turn to celebrate, he said.

State Rep race begins; other candidates disclose finances

By Neil Fater

With people's summer vacations approaching, Denise A. Parsons, one of three candidates for state representative to Andover and South Lawrence, said efforts to increase her name recognition are in high gear.

"June is going to be my month. I hope that by the summer everyone knows who Denise Parsons is," said Ms. Parsons.

Ms. Parsons will oppose fellow Democratic candidate and current Selectman Barry R. Finegold in the September state primary for the seat currently held by Gary Coon. The victor then will face Republican James E. Fox, who is running unopposed within his party.

Along with about 20 supporters last week, Ms. Parsons said she distributed 6,500 "door knockers" - campaign literature that fits around people's door knobs - in Andover and part of Lawrence.

"It was overwhelming but it was fun. I think I lost five pounds," said Ms. Parsons. "I think it's more effective than the mailers. You have to look at it."

Ms. Parsons said she hopes there

These kids make 'zines in their spare time

By Neil Fater

While Andover's Youth Services department is looking to start adventure-based alternative programs, some youth are creating alternative programs on their own.

Among this group of revolutionaries are youth involved with 'zines, self-produced and uniquely-styled publications about, well, anything they want.

"The whole thing about it is there's no wrong or right way to do it," said

Jeremy Maguire, creator of The Banana

The firm's team, consisting of Sue Noble (captain), Mark Schonfeld and Mr. Volinski, correctly spelled "eidolon" (a phantom or apparition) in the final round to beat 33 other companies in the annual corporate challenge. Each winning team member received a round-trip ticket to Paris courtesy of TWA.

Sherburne Powers & Needham held a preliminary office competition to find the company's most knowledgeable word-smiths. Jim Pollock, a partner in the firm, serves on the board of directors of the Boston Adult Literacy Fund.

In its seventh year, the Spelling Bee is the major fund-raising event for the Boston Adult Literacy Fund. This year's event raised nearly $95,000 toward literacy efforts to benefit Boston adults with contributions from 42 companies.

Sara Doyle of 4 Ivy Lane has been selected as an official entrant for the 1996 Mrs. Massachusetts Pageant. Mrs. Doyle was chosen from hundreds of qualified applicants by the state committee.

Sara Doyle

Mrs. Massachusetts will be selected in a weekend event on June 29 and 30 in Worcester and will appear in the 20th annual Mrs. America Pageant, which will be nationally televised.

Mrs. Doyle enjoys playing golf at Andover Country Club with her husband, Kevin, cooking healthy gourmet cuisine, sewing teddy bears, and playing the piano. She graduated from Creighton University in Omaha, Neb., with a degree in marketing. Mrs. Doyle believes it is very important to develop high self-esteem in each of her three children: Kevin Jr., Kelsey and Moiria Jane. She has written a children's story (yet to be published) and hopes to someday launch an after-school theater program for children and teenagers whose parents work full-time.

Lucy Bernardin, owner of Victorian Treats on Park Street, will be walking in Anchorage, Alaska's Mayor's Midnight Sun Marathon, June 22. The Marathon is one of the largest leukemia benefit runs in the nation.

Ms. Bernardin agreed last January to raise $3,500 for the Leukemia Society's Cure 2000 program. So far, Ms. Bernardin has exceeded her initial goal by $1,500 and hopes to raise an additional $2,500 by the year's end.

"I just wanted to make more money for leukemia research," said Ms. Bernardin.

Victorian Treats is holding a raffle to raise additional money. Prizes featured include a two-night stay at the Harbor House on Nantucket, a one-night stay at the Kennebunkport Inn, a double-magnum bottle of 1991 Robert Mondavi Cabernet, and gift certificates from various Andover shops.

Ms. Bernardin, who has had six knee injuries in her life, said that she has walked in many smaller races, including the Feaster Five Road Race. The Midnight Sun marathon is 26.2 miles. Ms. Bernardin has been walking more than 20 miles in the past few months in preparation.

"I'm really looking forward to it," said Ms. Bernardin. "It's for such a great cause."

People can buy raffle tickets at Victorian Treats. Winners will be announced mid to late July.

Revolution, one Andover 'zine. "I've gotten a bunch of these matchbook sized ones you have to flip up to read."

"Zines can contain poems, drawings and prose, and are written by everyone from middle-school students such as Andover's Pete Edgerly "all the way to housewives. There's a 'zine for every single hobby you can imagine, every single group of people," said Mr. Maguire, who collects 'zines from around the country.

Jeremy Maguire of 66 Osgood St., and his 'zines. Many are done on copying machines, some on computers. The rules? There are none.

For the most part 'zines are "For writer-type kids who don't want to do the school newspaper," said Mark Wood, senior class president and producer of a half-sheet-sized 'zine called give and take. "It's stuff that you can't really get published in the mainstream that you want to convey to people."

Mr. Wood and Mr. Maguire sell their less-than-monthly 'zines for $1 (available by mail) and say they usually break even because of the cost of publication. They figure there are around a half-dozen 'zines produced by Andover youth.

"I read a number of them and I like them. I think they're well-written and entertaining," said Bill Fahey, Youth Services coordinator. "I think it's a good example of how young people communicate with one another. They tell it how they see it, how they view things."

Sometimes that can get kids in trouble at school. Mr. Maguire said he got two Saturday detentions for one issue containing expletives and a piece insulting a former student. It was called "An interview with an above-average moron" and referred to the former student by his first name only.

"That was an exception to what we usually do. We like to just entertain," said Mr. Maguire.

To avoid further trouble, The Banana Revolution now uses some of the world's worst sodas as substitutes for swear words – and that's no bullshasta.

"The Banana Revolution is going to stay in the High School because I'm a senior this year and I'm going to pass it on to a friend (Matthew Mahoney) who's a junior. I'll start a new 'zine when I go to college," said Mr. Maguire.

In fact, he already has a name picked out – Ad Nauseum.

Mr. Maguire said re-occurring subjects of entertainment in his High School 'zine include director Quentin Tarantino, the television show X-files and being ignored after concerts by the band They Might Be Giants.

The Revolution has been written about in Factsheet Five, a magazine about 'zines, and Mr. Fahey said the 'zine was specifically mentioned at a youth workshop he attended out of town.

Mr. Maguire said since his publication appeared in Factsheet Five he's been "getting mail like crazy." He corresponds with people such as a Canadian who writes a 'zine about five-pin bowling.

"In Canada, it's the number-one participation sport. I've never heard of it. I was going to do something for it about candlepin bowling because that's only in New England," he said. The Canadian writers talk about things such as "The stranglehold of 10-pin bowling." They take it pretty seriously."

What makes people write for a 'zine?

Mr. Wood said he started give and take last August with "Just stuff I'd been writing at the time to get it out of the notebook and share it with my friends."

"Some people do it for an outlet. People do it for all different reasons," said Mr. Maguire. Such as "Love of a certain thing that they must write about – a band or just the most random things. There's a 'zine about cereal."

"There's a 'zine where a guy writes about his favorite places to wash dishes," he said, explaining that particular 'zine can be 50 pages long. "I guess if you know a subject well enough you can write about it forever."

will be a debate or forum for herself and Mr. Finegold before the state primary.

Finance reports

In belated campaign news, finance reports from this year's town election have been filed with the town clerk's office.

The big spenders were victorious challenger Eric Nadworny and defeated incumbent Dick Muller, the candidates from the hotly contested School Committee race.

From Jan. 29, when he opened an account, until April 14, Mr. Nadworny raised $2,386. He spent $1,990.68 during the campaign, leaving him with a balance of $395.32. Mr. Nadworny's campaign also received in-kind contributions worth $1,337.93, including at least $606.47 from Mr. Nadworny himself.

Mr. Muller entered 1996 with $276.76 in his account and raised $2,284.99 between Jan. 1 and April 14. By April 14 his expenditures totaled $2,011.75, leaving him with an ending balance of $550. He also had an outstanding liability of $718.20 for printing costs as of that time.

Candidates must list receipts and expenditures totaling $50 or more. Mr. Nadworny received only one donation of $50 from a resident, while Mr. Muller received 11 donations of more than $50.

Mr. Nadworny spent $1,223.50 for newspaper ads, $245.70 for campaign signs, $209.07 for postcards, and $52.50 for copies.

Mr. Muller spent $300 for a newspaper ad, $288.75 to print fliers, $175 for design of the flier, and $1,249 for stamps.

The only other contested race in the election was handled quite differently. Jim Doherty neither raised nor spent any money during his successful campaign against John Doyle to become town moderator.

Mr. Doyle did not raise any money either, but spent $10.79 to pay for his bank account's inactive fees. He had $67.01 in his account as of April 18, 1995 and a balance of $56.22 as of April 14, 1996.

Body in Merrimack River is missing Andover woman

By Don Staruk

A body found floating in the Merrimack River in Haverhill Monday morning is that of missing 20-year-old Andover resident Carrie Hope Feinberg.

The identification was made Monday night during an autopsy in Boston by using dental records, according to Essex County district attorney Kevin M. Burke.

The DA would not confirm or deny published reports that Ms. Feinberg's body was found bound and gagged with duck tape, but he left no question that she was the victim of a murder.

"This is definitely a homicide, with the prime suspect being Russell Dagenais," Mr. Burke said.

A statement from his office said that forensic evidence is still being analyzed.

"The cause of death will not be released because of the status of the ongoing investigation," the statement said.

Haverhill's assistant harbor master, Timothy Slavitt, found Ms. Feinberg's body floating in the water around the docks of Lighthouse Landing Marina near the Groveland Bridge in Haverhill about 10:45 a.m. Monday, according to Steve O'Connell, spokesman for the DA's office.

Ms. Feinberg, of 25 Wild Rose

Drive, disappeared Saturday, Jan. 13, after leaving her job as a nurse's aide at Oxford Rehabilitation Center in Haverhill.

Ms. Feinberg's ex-boyfriend, Russ M. Dagenais, 20, who had previous addresses in several area towns, plead guilty last week in Lawrence District Court to several charges, some of which were related to Ms. Feinberg's disappearance, according to Mr. O'Connell. He is currently serving 18 months in the Middleton Jail for those crimes.

The charges included two restraining order violations, one for his mother and one for Ms. Feinberg; an assault and battery charge for allegedly striking his mother; and a charge of receiving a stolen car, Ms. Feinberg's.

Mr. Dagenais was immediately suspected in Ms. Feinberg's disappearance and turned himself in to police in Daytona, Fla., a few days

FINANCIAL STRATEGIES

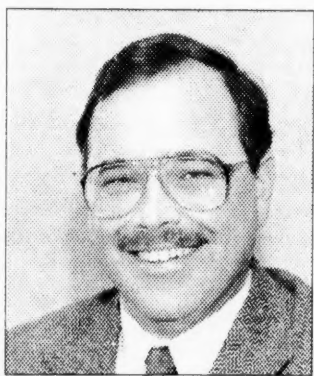

by Ronald R. Hill, CLU, ChFC

TAKING RISKS

In the world of investing, risk is the chance that investors take of making or losing money on their investments. The greater the risk that investors are willing to assume, the more they stand to gain or lose. Thus, one of the first things that investors must decide before they invest their money is how much risk they are willing to assume. Those who wish only to take limited risk by concentrating on liquid, secure stock and fixed income investments are labeled as "conservative." Stepping up the risk-tolerance scale are "aggressive" investors who take risks by putting money into growth stocks. Then, there are "speculative" investors who take major risks on investments with unpredictable results. With low-risk investments, such as government bonds, there is the guarantee that investors will get their money back, plus interest. High-risk investments, such as stock in a new company, are not guaranteed, but there is greater upside potential. The single most important factor in which sorts of investments you should select is the time frame you have until you will need the funds. It is risky to invest short-term money (needed in 1-3 years) in stocks, but it is just as risky to invest long-term funds (needed in 3-5 years or longer) in conservative, short-term investments. Please let us help you determine the right investments for you, given your goals.

At BAYSTATE FINANCIAL SERVICES, 10 Essex Street, Andover, we offer all the latest information on every type of option that is available to you from the low yield, but stable bank accounts and bonds, to the higher yield, more aggressive growth funds. Your individual financial goals, estimated time table and risk tolerance are just a part of our analysis. We want you to be able to make the most informed decision you can make, because when it comes to your future, you need to know that you've made the best decision. If you would like to schedule a consultation, please call us at 475-9212. Or, please call our Boston office located at 100 N. Washington Street at (617) 523-4500.

HINT: Investors who play it too safe run the risk of coming up short on funds, as well as outliving their assets because they will not keep up with inflation.

Bob Phinney at the Lanam Club

Bob Phinney

Longtime Andover resident (now living in Seabrook Beach, N.H.) Robert W. Phinney steps down as Lanam Club managing director this month.

Pictured here amid the landscaping at the private club on the grounds of the Wood Estate in Shawsheen Village, Mr. Phinney remembers the famous people who have frequented the posh ambience of this 1917 residence with its marble columns, hand-carved woodwork and rococo ceilings. The house was built by William Wood, president of the then-largest worsted woolen company in the country, American Woolen Co.

In 1957, the house became a club for Lawrence, Andover, North Andover and Methuen (LANAM) business men. Mr. Phinney joined the club 35 years ago. At the time he was a banker in this area. He became acting club manager in 1978. And he has been there ever since.

Paramount Pictures filmed School Ties at the club in 1992. Mr. Phinney's pinnacle came this May when he entertained former President George Bush at the club and was dinner chairman for Andover's 350th celebration. The head table guests were served by Lanam Club personnel.

THERE'S SOMETHING MAGICAL that happens when a virtuoso musician performs. More than simply a studied knowledge of music, more than a practiced perfection of rhythm and tone, it's an innate love and passion for his art that shines through. Even the most complex pieces seem to flow with ease. That's what creates the brilliant results.

THE SAME THING HAPPENS when Linda Cutter sells a home. Sure she's taken all the classes, she knows the steps to take, what works and what doesn't. And she has the experience any expert in the field ought to have gained.

BUT LINDA HAS a little something more as well. It's her passion for her work and her true love for what she does that continually help her achieve such great results for those she works with.

FOR LINDA, REAL ESTATE IS NEVER just a matter of going "by the book" or "according to the numbers."

TO HER, EACH TRANSACTION is a personal mission to give her absolute best to meeting the individual needs of every person and family she serves. That's why those who've worked with Linda consider her such a real estate virtuoso. Call her today.

State commends school system's effort with special education

By Neil Fater

A state review of the Andover public school system said Andover is doing a commendable job of trying to include special-needs students in its classrooms and its extra-curricular activities.

A team of three state Department of Education officials visited Andover earlier this year and rated the school system's implementation of selected state special education and Title I requirements. Of the nearly 100 areas they reviewed, the officials found two areas where they considered the implementation "commendable," the highest of the state's four rankings.

"Interviews indicated that the district has made extraordinary efforts to enable students in need of special education to participate in regular education programs," the Department of Education members reported. They also gave Andover a commendable rating for making "extraordinary efforts to ensure that students with special needs have an equal opportunity to participate in educational, nonacademic, extracurricular and ancillary programs."

Dick Neal, superintendent, submitted the state's report to the School Committee Tuesday evening. He noted the state did not find any areas where Andover had failed to substantially implement a state requirement.

Andover substantially met the implementation requirements of 81 of the 95 areas reviewed, and partially implemented the requirements in 12 other areas.

"Virtually, as I read the report, almost every one of the places where it was (rated) only 'partially complete' had to do with paper work," said Lloyd Willey, committee member. Mr. Willey lauded Andover's special-education department, calling the state report "a real credit to the program they're carrying out."

The state report did indicate, however, that Andover could do a better job of formal-after her disappearance. Mr. Dagenais told police Ms. Feinberg fell into the Merrimack River the night she disappeared. He said the two were sitting on a wall talking when he inadvertently startled her, and she fell into the icy water. He said he then panicked and took her car and drove to Florida. He had been held on $1 million cash bail prior to his guilty plea and sentencing last week. No murder charges had been filed against him as of Wednesday morning.

Ilene Karnow, Ms. Feinberg's mother, is a teacher at Greater Lawrence Technical School on River Road. Ms. Feinberg's only sibling, Jared, is a freshman at Andover High School. Ms. Feinberg moved into an apartment in Methuen with a friend last year.

Andover man charged in Boston graffiti case

By Don Staruk

A 21-year-old Andover man has been charged in one of the biggest graffiti cases in Boston history.

Matthew Collings, 21, of 6 Sugarbush Lane, a student at Suffolk University, is charged with "putting his handiwork" on 77 different properties, most of them in the Brighton area, according to Carmen Fields, press secretary for Suffolk County district attorney Ralph C. Martin II.

Mr. Collings, who moved to Andover from Roxbury, was arraigned April 1, and had a status hearing in his case this past Tuesday, June 4. He faces "in the ball park" of 231 years in jail and $77,000 in fines, according to Ms.

Fields.

"The whole graffiti problem, if you will, is something district attorney Ralph Martin has chosen to take a very aggressive prosecutorial stand on," she said. Mr. Martin does not view graffiti as a victimless crime, she said.

"He believes it has a negative impact on business and the well being of a neighborhood," Ms. Fields said. "It's an active case and district attorney Martin will be aggressively pursuing it."

Published reports say Mr. Collings has a history of graffiti arrests over the last two years, and that he has unique characteristics to his graffiti that make it readily identifiable to Boston police.

Andover man to be charged in Merrimack Valley death

By Don Staruk

An Andover is to be charged with motor vehicle homicide in the death of a Melrose man in an accident on Interstate 93 in Methuen Saturday night, May 25.

John Tateosian, 27, of 1 Blanchard St., will also be summoned to face a charge of driving to endanger. William Bellis, 38, of Melrose, died in the crash.

Mr. Tateosian's Volkswagen Jetta allegedly struck the back of Mr. Bellis' Ford Bronco, causing both cars to roll over. Mr. Tateosian and one passenger in each of the cars were injured, according to published reports.

Planners close hearing on Deering Estates

By Don Staruk

Planners last week, Tuesday, May 28, closed the public hearing on the Deering Estates subdivision proposed for Jenkins Road. They will vote on the definitive subdivision plan, a special permit to cluster and a special permit for earth removal and regrading at their next meeting Tuesday, June 11.

The plans for Deering Estates call for construction of 21 new houses on a 33.3 acre parcel that already contains two existing homes at 140-150 Jenkins Road. Selectmen two weeks ago, in their role as water commissioners, voted to allow the developer to pay for a mile-and-half long extension to the town's water distribution system to service Deering Estates.

Some of the roughly two dozen residents at Tuesday's public hearing questioned the Planning Board's role in controlling growth in town. Peggy and James Keck, of Harold Parker Road, cited different parts of the zoning bylaw they suggested could be used to prevent some of the construction.

From Madrid, Spain, Olaia Naveiras-Torres stands in the circle at the Great Lawn after graduation ceremonies. Barbara Landis Chase, head of school, reads the name on diplomas in no particular order. They're then passed around the circle and each student takes his or her own.

Sarah Heifetz of North Andover and Sarah Pakstis of Andover enjoy a laugh during graduation. Graduating women from Phillips carry roses in the Abbot Academy tradition. This is the school's 218th year.

Academy graduates 351

Phillips Academy holds 218th commencement exercises

Phillips Academy's 218th graduation took place Sunday, June 2, on the Great Lawn in front of Samuel Phillips Hall. The class of 1996 totaled 351 students, 184 boys and 167 girls.

For 32 years Phillips Academy students have marched to and from their graduation ceremony behind Edward J. Morrissey of Andover as he led the Clan MacPherson Bagpipe Band. Mr. Morrissey retired after the ceremony. The school presented him with a token of appreciation and the students gave him a standing ovation.

Holding to tradition, commencement speakers were Head of School Barbara Landis Chase and student body president Michael Krupp of Chestnut Hill. David M. Underwood, president of the board of trustees and a 1954 graduate of the academy, awarded the diplomas. A reception on the Great Lawn followed the ceremony.

Ms. Chase talked about finding balance and perspective in what will likely be busy lives. "I do not minimize the satisfaction that work can bring,"

she said. "(But) as limitless choices have opened for women, the challenge has also grown to balance the demands of their families and their work.

"The relatively recent men's movement, in the important issues it has raised, has heightened the desire of many men to integrate more fully family and work, the public and private aspects of their lives. The young men among you will benefit as these important concerns of men's lives continue to be discussed and illuminated.

"None of us should live by work alone, and yet meaningful work is necessary to a fulfilling and useful life. How we balance work and personal life will be different for each of us. My own view is that for any of us to succeed in this juggling act, we must keep our perspective, our sense of humor and appreciate the persistence of ambiguity in a complex life."

Mr. Krupp talked about taking risks in life. "We came to Andover, and in doing so we risked a great deal," he said.

"We risked failure... As we all gather here today to receive our diplomas knowing none of us has failed, we finally realize that the risks we took were well worth the end result. If there's one thing I've learned at Andover... (it's that) taking risks is important, not only for today, but for tomorrow."

The Crowdaddies

Concerts to benefit SHED and Kid's Club

The Crowdaddies, a group of local musicians who are all daddies, including Andover resident Chip Carter, have been performing original children's music in concerts around Massachusetts for more than five years. Their songs combine imagination and fun as they sing about pirates, dinosaurs, cowgirls, spaghetti, hippos and much more.

Money raised will help SHED and Kid's Club expand and move to a larger facility that will be built on the grounds of Phillips Academy. Sydney Bialo, director of the SHED/Kid's Club, said this concert is an appropriate way to begin raising money for the program. "Our focus at SHED and Kid's Club has always been to provide children with fun while they learn. A Crowdaddies concert allows children to enjoy themselves while expanding their imaginations. We hope that parents will come to the concert to have fun and to support SHED and Kid's Club."

Advance tickets are $5 and can be purchased at the SHED building at Shawsheen School on Anne's Lane, Kid's Club at the Korean Church, Learning Express and Kid's Curiosity Shop. Tickets are $6 at the door. Children under 2 are admitted free. Fathers will be eligible for a door prize.

For more information call SHED at 623-8460.

Andover Youth Services wanted to provide young people with the best entertainment they've seen in 350 years. Last Saturday, June 1, the streets around Old Town Hall were closed off as AYS invited the whole town to come join in the celebration of youth called Main Street Madness. Activities included a 3-on-3 hoopfest, 2-on-2 volleyball tournament, a skateboard park, snowboard competition, rollerblading, rock-climbing wall, jousting, and music all day and evening by some of the best local bands.

Above, volunteers constructed a beach volleyball court – with 100 cubic yards of donated sand – in the parking lot behind Old Town Hall. Doug Miller and Leo Blais are ready. Left, Main Street was transformed into a hassle-free skateboard park, complete with ramps and jumps, for one memorable day.

The M.O.B. [Masters of Boom] – singer Mike Home-wood, G. Dave Hajjar, Chris Kearn, Peter Kalsunas, and others – were the only rap act on the roster. They claim as influences the Wu-Tang Clan, Tupac Shakur, and the Geto Boys.

Addison discusses 'American Realism'

Addison Gallery of American Art at Phillips Academy presents a free public lecture and slide talk, "American Realism," this Sunday, June 9, at 2 p.m.

Phillips Academy's Addison Gallery of American Art continues to offer the Phelps Spring Lecture Series, a free series of lectures and gallery talks by American art scholars and museum staff that will focus on major works in the museum's collection. As the museum celebrates the 65th anniversary of its founding with the exhibition, "Addison Gallery of American Art: 65 Years," and the publication of the first definitive catalog of the collection, the lecture series provides the opportunity to highlight some of the treasures of the Addison's collection.

Susan Faxon, Addison Gallery's associate director and curator of paintings, will discuss Winslow Homer and Thomas Eakins. Allison Kemmerer, assistant curator, will discuss George Wesley Bellows. They will examine the life, work, and artistic contributions of "three of the greatest painters in American art history," organizers said, and reference their masterworks currently on display in the Addison's galleries.

The Phelps Lecture Series speakers, respected scholars, curators, and critics in the field of American art, are contributors to the catalog. These lectures and gallery talks, based on the artists and works that were researched for the catalog, will illuminate and contextualize the Addison Gallery's holdings.

The Addison Gallery of American Art is a department of Phillips Academy, located at the corner of Route 28 and Chapel Avenue. The museum is open to the public, free of charge, Tuesday through Saturday 10 a.m.-5 p.m., and Sunday 1-5 p.m., closed Mondays, national holidays, Dec. 24, and Aug. 1 through Labor Day.

Construction update highlights luncheon for future residents of Edgewood

NORTH ANDOVER — There was a feeling of anticipation in the air when future residents joined together at a spring luncheon for Edgewood, the new life-care retirement community now under construction in North Andover.

A slide presentation on construction progress presented by David Durden, Project Development Manager for Edgewood and its developer, Life Care Services Corporation (LCS) highlighted the program. Much to the delight of the nearly 200 future residents and guests at the Andover Country Club, Durden reported dramatic progress at the 63-acre site on historic Edgewood Farm.

In fact, the current Edgewood status report shows significant construction progress in the last month including water and sewer lines to the site and completion of the steel structure for the Health Center, dining room, and other commons areas. In addition, the roof is nearly completed for the Health Center. Of particular interest was the concrete floor on the first residential building that was poured the day of the luncheon. Grading of the entrance road is also complete.

"There's something new happening every day," said Dr. Joseph Rokous, President of Edgewood's local Board of Trustees, and host of the luncheon. "Edgewood is going to be a wonderful addition to the North Andover community, just as promised."

As yet another sign of construction progress, luncheon guests were treated to a presentation by Ann Webb Johnson of Wellesley Design Group, who reviewed the interiors at the community. She described the style of the commons building showing her design boards which included colors, materials, carpet and floor covering samples. The excitement spread throughout the presentation and Ms. Webb's displays were met with rave reviews. Future residents were reminded that they will be contacted soon to custom-design the interior finishes of their private residences, including carpets, flooring, cabinets, counter tops, appliances and more.

"There seems to be a growing excitement among our future residents," said Kathy Hamel, Edgewood Sales Manager. "Now that the walls are going up, they are getting a better orientation of what life will be like at Edgewood...and they like what they see! Plus, we're progressing on our schedule for first move-ins during Spring, 1997."

Located adjacent to Lake Cochichewick, Edgewood promises future residents an active, independent lifestyle, very much like the way they live now. Residents will also enjoy the comfort of their own private residence, the pleasure of first-class services and amenities, and the security of an on-site Health Center that's available if needed.

Edgewood is the only retirement community in the area to be developed and managed by LCS. Recognized as the leader in the life-care industry, LCS brings more than 30 years of experience in over 70 retirement communities nationwide. As an added measure of stability, Edgewood's Board of Trustees is made up of medical professionals, business people and clergy from the North Andover area.

Entrance fees at Edgewood currently start at $152,600, with a special Return-of-Capital™ Plan that returns 90 percent of the entrance fee to residents or their estates. Now that construction is well underway, Hamel suggests making a reservation now while there is still a good selection of floor plans and views.

For more information about Edgewood, or to arrange a personal tour of a model apartment home, call Kathy Hamel during business hours at (508)689-0202.

By itself, a capsule treatment approach does not achieve success. But combined with eating behavioral changes, weight loss is dramatically successful. And permanent. Only Beverly Hills provides this totally effective, combined method tailored to your specific needs. Please call us for the truth about weight loss. Guaranteed lowest fees, truly.

Flower show begins today

"A Tribute to Andover's Historical Beginning," a Standard Flower Show will be held today and tomorrow, June 6-7, from 1-8:30 p.m. and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., respectively, at the Christian Formation Center, 475 River Road.

The show will attempt to capture the essence of Andover through creative floral designs, depicting its earliest homes and public buildings.

The three club presidents - C. Joyce Ringleb, Laura Arrigg and SueAnne Basu, of the Andover Garden Club, Spade and Trowel, and Village Garden Club - were excited to collaborate on such an event.

Plans for the flower show began to take shape as early as last spring. Through the scheduling effort of Claire Syiek of the Andover Garden Club, the Design Division will highlight Old Town Hall, America's House, the Rose Cottage, Stone House (Harriet Beecher Stowe residence), Amos Blanchard House and the Deacon Isaac Abbot Tavern.

The Horticulture Division, under the direction of Kathie Baun of the Village Garden Club and Lois Simmonds of the Andover Garden Club, will display a plethora of plant material.

Organizers were awaiting the arrival of the public's plant specimens yesterday, Wednesday, June 5, from 4 to 8 p.m. at the Christian Formation Center. The horticulture portion of the show provides an opportunity for plant growers to showcase their favorites.

The show will also include a Juniors Division (Design and Horticulture) reminiscent of bygone days - when typical activities include Doing Chores on the Farm, School, Playtime and a Sunday Picnic at the Park. Young and aspiring designers and horticulturalists from the Andover Junior Garden Club, under the direction of Sheila Lowe of the Andover Garden Club, will have an opportunity to make a contribution.

"A Tribute to Andover's Historical Beginning," "promises to be as much a celebration of the bounty of the land and its diverse flora as it is commemorative of Andover's earliest founders whose lives were grounded by the earth. Don't miss this rare event," organizers said.

Tickets are $5 and are available at the door.

Billings Memorial Jimmy Fund golf event

The fifth annual Alexander M. Billings Memorial Jimmy Fund Golf Tournament will tee off Monday, July 1, at Andover Country Club. The fund-raiser is organized by friends and family of Alexander, who died in September 1991 at age 2, after a long battle with brain cancer. Alex was the son of Matthew and Betsy Billings and grandson of Robert and Estelle Billings of Bartlet Street. Nynex Information Resources and other local businesses are helping sponsor this event, which hopes to raise more than $25,000 to benefit the Dana Farber Cancer Institute.

"We have been very fortunate with the first four tournaments, raising over $100,000 for the Jimmy Fund, which is the fund-raising arm of the Dana Farber. Out of 108 Jimmy Fund tournaments in 1995, we ranked 18 in terms of money raised," says Larry Lamagna, one of the event organizers. "It is a perfect day to have some fun, support a very worthy cause, and remember little Alex," said Tim Barry, a long-time friend of the family.

The day will include barbecue, golf, cart, and dinner, or just dinner for non-golfers. The donation is $140 for the full day of activity, or $40 for dinner only. Businesses are sponsoring holes for $400. Prizes include round-trip airline tickets for two, weekend getaways, golf clubs, autographed sports memorabilia, and other prizes.

"Alex displayed such courage in his battle, but without funds to support the ongoing research and clinical care, it is inevitable that more and more children and adults will suffer from this tragic disease," said Alex's father.

To participate in the event, donate raffle and auction items, or sponsor a hole, call Tim Barry at 475-2033, or Larry Lamagna at 475-0317.

HOW FUNERALS HELP THE LIVING

The importance of funerals has been recognized since ancient times when our ancestors conducted reverential ceremonies to accompany the burial of their dead. Aside from providing survivors with the opportunity to commemorate a life that has been lived and pay their final respects, a funeral helps those who grieve to take the first step toward accepting the reality of death. This process can be helped enormously by the show of emotional support that family and friends make during the funeral and soon thereafter. Those who grieve can then take comfort from the knowledge that they do not have to face their loss alone. Funerals also help the bereaved forge further ahead in the grieving process by allowing them to view the body and thereby overcome the denial that psychologists have established as a natural part of the grieving process. Funerals are for the living, that they might begin to find acceptance and peace.

Often when a death first occurs, we can't or don't wish to believe it. Funeral rituals are effective in helping us accept reality. The time of the funeral, the somber break in routines, the rituals themselves — all are vivid reminders that a loss has occurred. If you need help with arranging funeral services, call BURKE FUNERAL HOME at 475-5200. A non-sectarian home, we will design funeral services to suit any religious belief or personal taste. We are located at 390 North Main Street.

Andover High building project to go into next summer

By Neil Fater

The moving target of construction completion dates for the Andover High School project has moved into the summer of 1997.

Dick Neal, superintendent, told the School Committee Tuesday night the final phase of the project, including work on the Collins Center and the existing library and kitchen, won't be complete until next summer.

But, for now, Andover educators are concerned about the availability of the new science wing, because the most recent schedule shows the segment including the new gymnasium, lobby and science wing won't be complete until July 31 of this summer.

Mr. Neal said the school wanted the wing done before summer so the science teachers themselves could move their science equipment into the new wing.

"We've been ready for weeks now to pack up and move into the science labs," he said.

School officials are also concerned that the temporary stairs dividing the cafeteria be removed and that the Dunn Gymnasium be ready for the 1996 fall sports season.

"It is essential that the Dunn Gym be available by Aug. 21 when teams report and are ready to go back to school," said Mr. Neal. "This is still an area we are concerned about."

Heating up

Meanwhile, Andover High teachers are concerned about a lack of air conditioning in the computer labs and

"oppressive heat" in several self-contained classrooms, said Tom Meyers, teachers union president.

"The bottom line is we're holding up a vital, essential unit of the curriculum," said Mr. Meyers. "I think one of the things is if we had Buzz (Stapczynski, town manager) over there in a room it (getting air conditioning) probably would happen quickly. Sometimes a little reality therapy helps."

ly informing parents of special-education decisions.

State education officials reviewed 10 special-education criteria under the category of "parental involvement" and found partial implementation in six of the 10 areas.

One comment read: "Student case record reviews and interviews indicated that although written parental consent is obtained before conducting an initial evaluation, it is not always obtained before the initial placement of a student in a special education program."

Other comments indicated that although verbal notification is always given to parents regarding special education issues, written notification is not.

Madness

at the selectmen's meeting Monday night to talk about the event.

The kids apologized to the merchants for any loss of business, but they said the day was "awesome." They thanked Selectman Barenboim for advocating for them, and keeping the event on Main Street.

The merchants told selectmen that they lost between 50 and 75 percent of the business they had on the same day last year. They made it clear that they support the youth of Andover and that they would support other events for them. In fact, Walter McKertich, owner of the Earthfood Store, said he'd help with such event, but he wanted to be involved in where and when it is done. The merchants at Monday's meeting wanted to discuss when and for what reasons Main Street can be closed in the future.

Dick Chapel of Andover Photo told the Townsmen Monday that he did about the same amount of business as he usually does on a Saturday. But Greco Jewelers closed early. Ray Nazarian of Nazarian's jewelry store told the Townsmen Monday morning that the event cut down on his business. He said he "was surprised" that Main Street Madness wasn't held in Central Park on Bartlet Street since it was for one specific group. He said when Main Street is closed for Bazaar Days, that is an event for all ages.

Sean Quinn, a member of the Andover Center Association and owner of the Strawberry Tree card and gift shop, said, "Our business was off substantially. But it looked like a lot of fun. But anything that closes off Main Street is bad for business."

However, Mr. Fahey said, "Merchants I talked to said that the day was pretty good for them."

Mr. Fahey said he appreciated what downtown merchants sacrificed and that he would fully support them when Bazaar Days comes around June 21 and 22.

All ages partied

"Kids" turned out to be babies, lots of teens and plenty of adults, including senior citizens. (Also a dog or two.) Mr. Fahey said the event was a total success because it took place on such a beautiful day and was supported by kids and adults.

"The thing that surprised me was that we had people of all ages there. There were mothers and fathers there," said Mr. Fahey.

The activities ran from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. and included a skateboard contest, jousting, basketball, crafts, and several teen bands from the area.

The skateboard contest, organized by Marilyn Ichton-Joyce from Catch the Wave skateboard shop, provided much of the entertainment.

"Adults were amazed at how good the kids were at skating," said Ms. Ichton-Joyce. "This one kid, Mark Woods (AHS senior class president), built the ramps. I was really impressed."

Ms. Joyce also said that watching the teens on the skate ramps gave adults a good idea of just how important a skateboard park would be to the teens of Andover.

Mr. Fahey said that a rap group from Lawrence, Coki Man, ran over to the dunk tank after their performance when they heard a policeman was there. The group's lead singer, Felix, bought $10 worth of tickets for 20 tennis balls to throw at Lt. Phillip Froburg.

According to Mr. Fahey, the lead singer missed every single time, and Lt. Froburg was teasing him. A fourth-grader was next in line and Felix offered him $5 if he got Lt. Froburg on his first throw. "The kid hit the target right on his first shot," said Mr. Fahey.

The volleyball court provided the town with free sand. Ms. Campbell said Boston Sand and Gravel donated 100 cubic yards of sand for the volleyball court. Because the sand had to be delivered the previous night, the sand was temporarily dumped at Pumps Pond, which was to be its permanent location after the event. Four other contractors donated the time and money to transport and clean up the sand after the event. Sunday morning the sand was all gone from the street. And trash was removed.

"The whole thing (sand) would have cost $5,000 just for the removal. It was a planning nightmare. But the town of Andover saved $1,000 and got the sand for Pumps Pond," said Ms. Campbell.

Mr. Fahey said that the event went off without any major problems and that feedback and support for Main Street Madness was "incredible."

"We had no problems and no supervision problems. There were no injuries. I can't say how many people who came up to me and said, 'It was great,'" said Mr. Fahey.

"It's the best event I've ever experienced with Bill Fahey," said Ms. Campbell.

Senator O'Brien says new budget addresses Andover's needs

The $17.4 billion fiscal year 1997 budget enacted by the Senate recently is a balanced one that maintains important past commitments and initiates promising new proposals, said Sen. John O'Brien, D-Andover. He asserts that "this budget addresses the most important issues facing Andover residents in the context of the fiscally responsible legislation that serves our obligation to citizens and municipalities across the Commonwealth."

Sen. Stanley Rosenberg, chairman of the Senate Committee on Ways and Means where the Senate budget was developed, was encouraged by the Senate's endorsement of the committee's proposal during budget debate. "There was a net increase of only 1/100 of 1 percent to the budget. This is a gratifying vote of confidence in a budget that is balanced, that includes no new taxes and that makes meaningful strides toward a better future for children and working families."

$2.8M for education here

The proposed budget includes $2.8 million for education in Andover, a $392,000 increase over fiscal year 1996. These funds represent the fourth consecutive year the Senate has fully funded the 1993 Education Reform Act, which is designed to improve the caliber and equitability of primary and secondary education in the Commonwealth.

In addition to making investments in K-12 education, the committee's budget increases funding for early childhood education by $12 million, recommends an additional $55.7 million for public higher education and introduces a tax deduction to offset college tuition. Sen. O'Brien successfully advocated for increased funds - $1 million, a 10-percent increase - in the Gilbert Grant Scholarship program for students attending private institutions.

The Senate budget also maintains the promise of increased local aid through the distribution of additional lottery revenues.

"A partnership must exist between the state and local governments to provide basic services to all our residents," said Sen. O'Brien.

$1.1M for Andover's municipal budget

The budget proposed $1.1 million for Andover's municipal government, an increase of $124,000 above current year funding. There is also a $3 million grant to assist workers displaced by the Malden Mills fire.

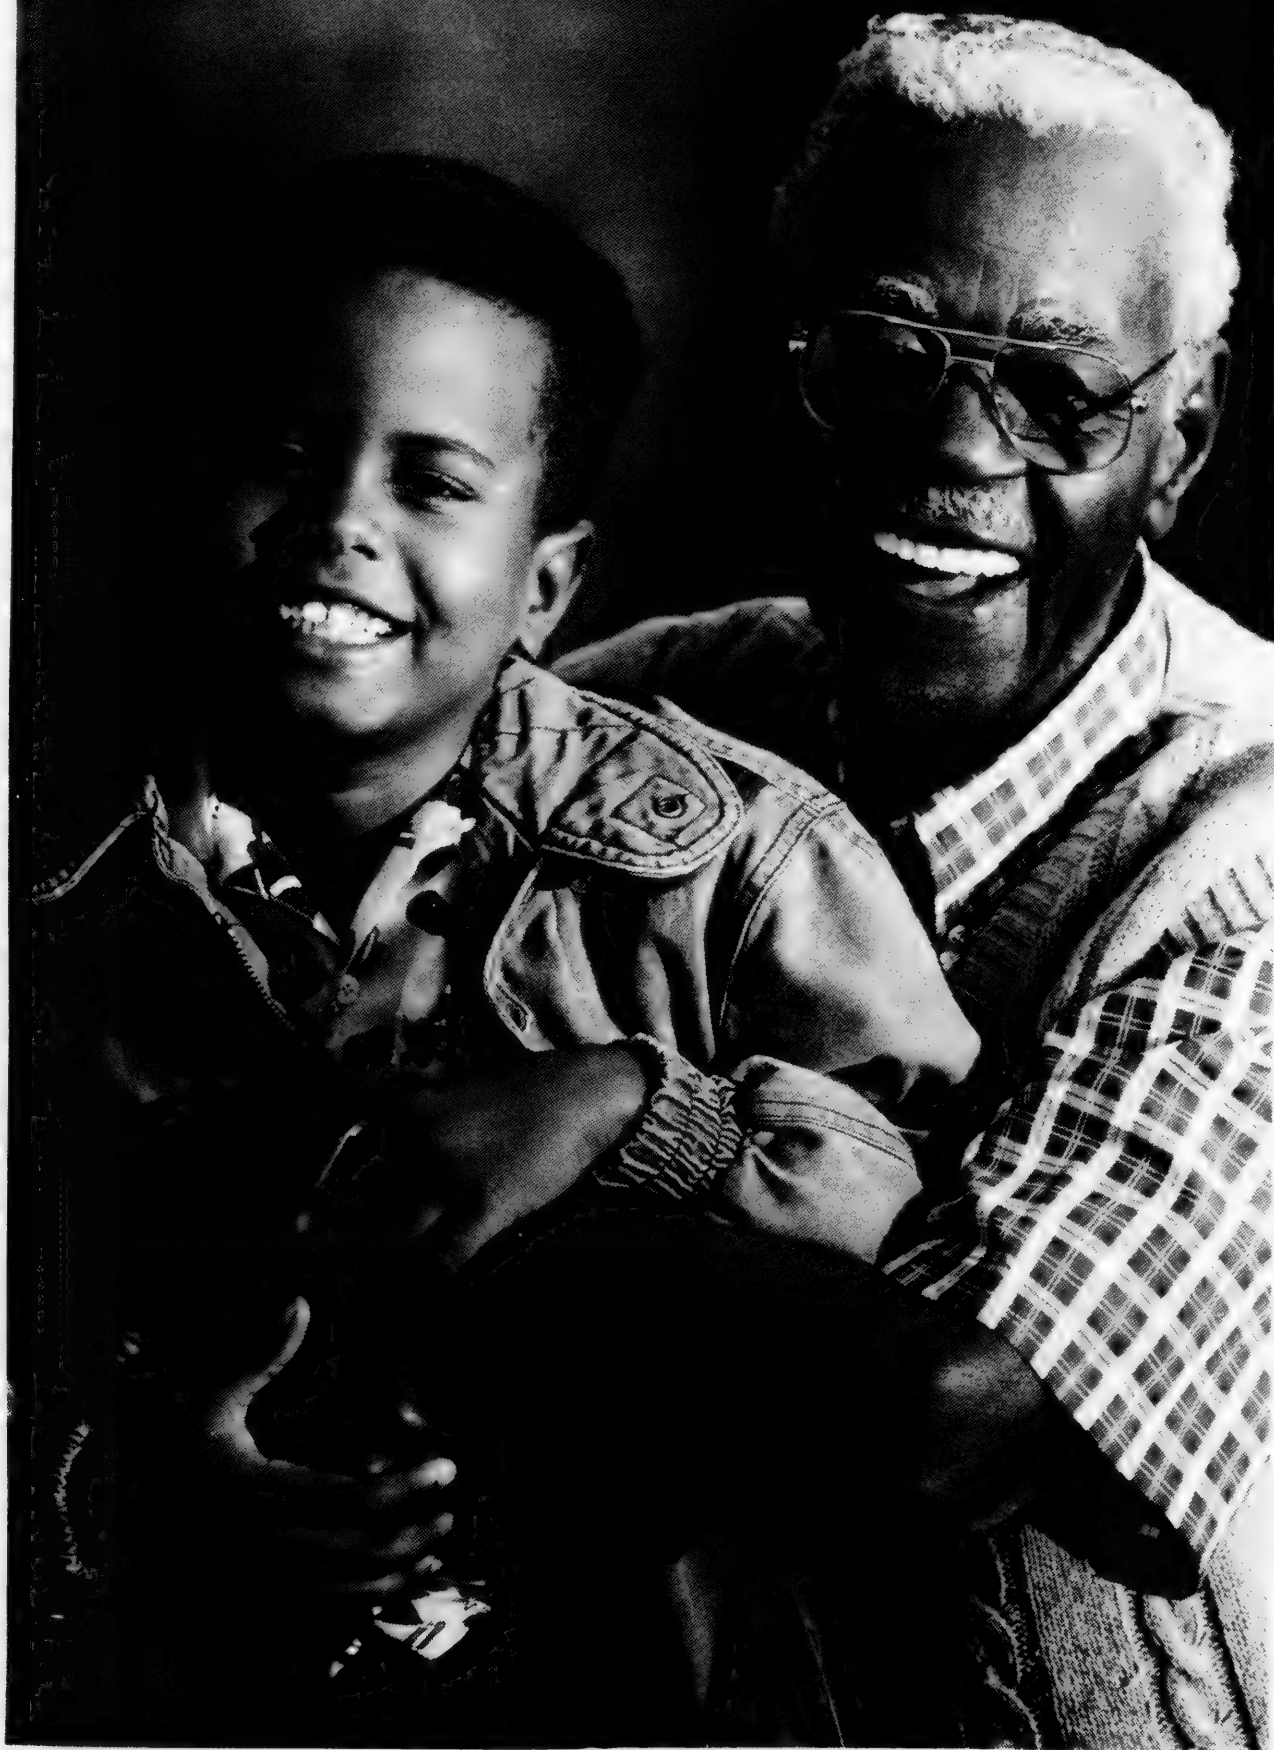

Sen. O'Brien explained that "Difficult choices were made to develop this balanced budget and I am pleased that the emphasis is on government's fundamental responsibilities to its citizens." The budget also includes increases for public safety and human services.

"Senate initiates aim to improve the ability of the commonwealth to care for its most vulnerable and dependent members," said Sen. O'Brien.

He emphasized the additional millions appropriated to fund increases for AIDS prevention and treatment, initiatives to improve the care of foster children, substance abuse services, programs for the mentally retarded and councils on aging programs for seniors. Sen. O'Brien's support for statewide services is complemented by his advocacy for Emmaus Inc., for which he helped secure additional funds for the services that group provides to the homeless.

"It is also important that the Senate allocates funds for the individuals providing these and other essential direct care service," Sen. O'Brien said, referring to the $14 million appropriation for increases in the salaries of direct-care workers earning less than $20,000 a year, and $20 million to make day care rates more equitable.

Sen. O'Brien highlighted the additional $500,000 for community policing, the additional $500,000 for safe neighborhood initiatives and the 16-percent increase for programs to train municipal, county and state public safety officers.

During the Senate's budget debate, Sen. O'Brien amended the legislation to establish a new mediation program at Lawrence District Court.

These increases in funding were possible, even with conservative revenue estimates, because services and programs were scrutinized to determine where reduced appropriations were possible and appropriate. Consequently, millions of taxpayer dollars were redirected due to recommendations to streamline bureaucracies, reduce duplicative government functions, strengthen inter-agency coordination and improve the ability of state agencies to secure additional revenues.

Sex offender registry bill

State Sen. John O'Brien also announced recently that the Senate passed the sex offender registry and notification bill. This legislation will require all sex offenders to register in person at their local police departments and will establish a centralized computer registry of sex offender registry information. The information will be circulated among all law enforcement and will be available to the public upon request.

"The sex offender registry will aid law enforcement in tracking the whereabouts of sex offenders. It will also provide parents with the information they need to protect their children," said Sen. O'Brien, an original author of the bill.

Under the new law, sex offenders will be required to register within two days of their release from custody and verify the information in person on an annual basis. The public will be able to make inquiries to the sex offender registry through a telephone information line operated by the Criminal History Systems board or in person at the local police department.

"Forty-nine states have enacted sex offender registration laws. Thirty-two states grant the public access to registry information. I am delighted that we were able to get this bill through the Massachusetts Legislature," said Sen. O'Brien.

The sex offender registry and notification bill will now go before a House/Senate conference committee.

SEEN IN ANDOVER

By Perry Colmore and Don Staruk

It might have been raining most of the day, and the 156 of golfers playing in the Rose Cup 1996 Women's Golf Tournament at Indian Ridge Country Club Monday might have been cold, but that didn't stop them from cheering on Ann Lopez of East Boston. Ms. Lopez, playing in her first Rose Cup, managed a hole in one on the 7th Monday, winning a 1996 Ford, compliments of Nassar Ford, and also two tickets to any destination in Germany, donated by Woodworth Chevrolet.

Ann Lopez made history.

Over a dinner of lobster tail, roast beef, lemon chiffon pie and champagne, the women heard that Ms. Lopez made her hole in one with an Ultra ball and that her husband, John Lopez, is a rep for Wilson in this area. It was the first time in the tournament's 10 years that anyone ever hit a hole in one, and players thought it appropriate on this, the last Rose Cup, that someone managed it. Ms. Lopez said, "I bent down and started to cry." Patti Greaves of Lynnfield, one of her partners, said, "It was just like in the movies." Also in that foursome were Marilyn Clawson and Peg Anderson, both of North Andover.

The other big news of the evening seemed to be that a flasher had changed her clothes out on the green, "underwear and all," one golfer reported. At dinner, the women learned it was Mary Coulson of New Hampshire, who explained she was cold and thought she'd found a private moment. Not.

In a raffle, Christine Morris won a trip for two to Paris, and Jan Golan won a trip to Arizona. Ms. Golan, of Andover, was a volunteer. "I'm learning to play," she said. "Two years ago I won a set of golf clubs. I think there's a message there."

Of course the other big news of the evening was the winners: Molly Evanoff, Carole Ellstein, Sally Schaffer and Pat Flynn. Ms. Flynn, of Windham, N.H., also won a sand wedge in the raffle.

Sue Nassar, treasurer of the Rose Cup Committee, led the army of umbrella adorned golf carts out of the parking lot and onto the Indian Ridge Country Club course just as it began to rain Monday morning. Her teammates were Aggie Robert of Glastonbury, Conn., Carol McCann of Bradford and Cheryl O'Neil, of Windham, N.H. Ms. Nassar has played in every Rose Cup. It was Ms. Robert's seventh, Ms. McCann's fourth and Ms. O'Neil's second Rose Cup.

"And we're going to win this year," Ms. McCann said.

"Because we love rain," Ms. Robert said.

The Rose Cup was postponed only once, two years ago, due to lighting. It was played two months later, in August. Nancy Norbedo of North Andover, who has been with the tournament since its start, said the club was afraid playing would ruin the greens that year. The Rose Cup has been played at Indian Ridge for seven years.

Frances Rogers, of Windham, N.H., played all 10 Rose Cups. She was partnered Monday with Ann Bride of Andover, Carol Davis of North Andover and Madeline Brennan of Lowell. Elaine Burke of North Andover, co-chairwoman of the Rose Cup, played the first nine years of the tourney and was to be part of that group Monday, but injured her hand four weeks ago. Ms. Davis took her place. Ms. Burke, admittedly short in stature, was jumping up for something in her bedroom closet four weeks ago when her wedding ring caught on a shelf hook. She dangled from the hook - severing her ring finger on three sides - until the ring slipped off. The nearly-severed finger was re-attached and Ms. Burke is hoping for a full recovery, but it wasn't in time for Monday's golf.

"We started this. Carol and I started this. And I am here saying goodbye," Ms. Burke said as she bid adieu to her link-mates at the start.

While she was not able to play, Ms. Burke was hyperactively everywhere Monday. Her energy level was driving people nuts, she said, standing in the food tent outside the clubhouse, and everyone was telling her to go see if someone else needed help.

It was the seventh year each playing in the Rose Cup for Jean Mavrikos of River Road and Debbi Michaud of North Andover. They've been teammates for the last six years.

"It's going to be a fun day today in the rain," Ms. Mavrikos said. "I hate to see it end."

"It's been such a good tournament because there is no other tournament that is run by women, that is all women and that benefits women," Ms. Michaud said.

Brenda Farmer of Bradford was in her first Rose Cup and had never before played Indian Ridge. But she wasn't worried. "I'm going to do exactly what they tell me," Ms. Farmer said of her teammates.

Wanda Domoracki of Bradford was playing her fourth Rose Cup. "It's been great," she said.

Marion Gaffny, of North Andover, said it was her first Rose Cup. "The first time on the course also," she said.

"This is my fourth time," said Bar-

It all began 10 years ago

By Perry Colmore

It all started 10 years ago, and this year's Rose Cup ended on a high, the final women's golf tournament in a great series.

"I came up with the (original) idea," said Carol Poor, formerly of Andover, now of Charleston.

"A lot of us had been so fortunate in our lives. We wanted to give back," she said. "I was a new golfer."

Her friend, Elaine Burke of North Andover, was good at fundraising, so she contacted her. They then added Sue Nassar of North Andover, Joanne Abrahamson of North Andover, Loralee Kazanjian of Methuen, Betty Jaffe of Andover, Nancy Norbedo of North Andover, and Maz DeLuca of Windham, N.H. Three years ago, Jackie Drinkwater of Ipswich joined the energetic group.

They raised enough money over 10 years to retire the debt on a house for battered women somewhere in the Merrimack Valley, the Women's Resource Center. Right now, eight children and their mothers are sheltered there.

This year, the women decided it's time to leave the popular Rose Cup, and move on to another project. Oct. 24 at the Ramada Rolling Green, they'll have a fashion show with Yolanda to raise money for teen-age pregnancy prevention programs. Ms. Poor said the group may hold a reunion golf tournament in five years.

This year, 156 women played. Usually, they have 144, but they sent out the invitations on a Monday, and by Friday they'd sold out and then some; so they let in all 156.

The players come from Andover, North Andover, a huge crew from Ipswich, Winchester and Lexington, Gloucester, Windham, N.H., Seabrook, N.H., Haverhill, a few from Maine, Waltham, Boston and three from Rhode Island.

"We've had some major sponsors," said Ms. Poor, "particularly our husbands." Husbands have donated cars, printing, checks, and more.

bara Abdinoor of North Andover.

Debbie Getrost of Southboro was playing with Phyllis Uchin of Andover, Edwina Hughes of Waltham and Liz McDonough of Arlington. Ms. Uchin has played all 10 Rose Cups and Ms. McDonough played nine.

Marty Scully, of Cheever Circle, was playing her eighth. Her partners were Lynda Stoddard, who was playing her fourth, Kathy Sheehy of Andover, playing her ninth, and Sharon Sweet of Salem, N.H., playing her ninth.

"I won it six years ago," Ms. Sweet said.

"Then we're going to do it again this year," Ms. Sheehy said.

Ms. Scully and Ms. Stoddard were the first to light up a pair of foot-long cigars.

Hazel Laurenza of Haverhill and formerly of Andover, was playing in her 10th Rose Cup with Janet Cruickshank of Methuen. Ms. Cruickshank said one of the best things that happened in her 10 years of playing occurred earlier Monday when she found $20, then found who'd lost it and was able to return it. She and Ms. Laurenza were playing with Barbara Sansoucie of Bradford and Norma Lynch of Haverhill, who was playing her ninth Rose Cup.

Joanne Abrahamson, of North Andover, was playing her 10th Rose Cup. She was playing with Debbie Taber of Georgetown and Ashley McKinnon and Mellie Condon, both of Cape Neddick, Maine.

Joan Clark of Georgetown, Cindy Johnston of Atkinson, N.H., Diana Cordner of North Andover and Marlene MacKinnon of Haverhill were teamed together.

Ginny Franz and Nancy Gurry, both of Andover, and Barbara Stella, of North Andover, took a break for strawberries and coffee.

Nancy Greenwood Smith, a volunteer the Women's Resource Center for 15 years, and Jan Golan of Andover, a Rose Cup Committee member since the beginning 10 years ago, were helping brew the coffee and serve refreshments. Ms. Greenwood was treasurer of the Women's Resource Center when the idea for the Rose Cup first surfaced 10 years ago and said she'd never even dreamed of accomplishing what the tournament has for the Resource Center.

Joane Berry and Ann McCarthy, both of Ipswich, and Rose Contreas and Marilyn Weyland, both of Salem, Mass., have been "putting up with each other for eight years" in the Rose Cup, Ms. McCarthy said.

Shirley Barron of Andover and Ellie Depasquale of Revere played all 10 Rose Cups. They were playing with Tina Kalil of New Castle, N.H., and Myrna Prome, of Wentworth by the Sea Country Club in New Castle. Ms. Barron, Ms. DePasquale and Ms. Kalil thought last year was the best year because they won.

Kathy Bell of Andover, Linda Patti of Sudbury, Deby Gervais of Boston and Mary Coulson, of Hampton, N.H., all played several Rose Cups.

"And we're going to miss it," Ms. Coulson said.

"It's the best tournament you could possibly play in," Ms. Gervais said.

Pat Greeves of Lynnfield and Marilyn Clawson of North Andover were spotted teeing off on the fourth hole.

Betty Jaffe of Andover was wearing her shower cap to stay dry as she teed off on Number 4 with teammates Nancy Kramer of Andover, Carol O'Connor and Rose White. Ms. Jaffe said she's been on the Women's Resource hotline for years along with Gladys Aquino-Gaines, also of Andover, and the speaker for the evening. Sgt. Aquino-Gaines is commander of the domestic violence unit of the Boston Police Department.

Rose White tees off on the 4th hole.

She spoke of needing to reach out to battered women, and she thanked the women for their great efforts in that direction. "Every one of us here is affected and afflicted by domestic violence," said Ms. Aquino-Gaines.

Nancy Greenwood Smith, the first president of the Resource Center, said battered women "was not a popular subject 10 years ago." She said people first denied that women in Andover and North Andover could be abused. Ms. Jaffe found the house that the group bought for a shelter. The group has raised $247,000 in 10 years, Ms. Jaffe said, and Monday Carol Poor, founder of the Rose Cup, announced that the debt on the house has been retired. Ms. Jaffe said the house, Casa de Las Mujeres, house of women, has even recently had its kitchen renovated for handicapped users.

Ann Camuso of North Andover was playing in her 10th Rose Cup with Donna MacLeod of Sudbury, Jan Swallow of Marlboro and Tracey Harrington of Sudbury.

Anne Lucey of Andover, a volunteer for the Rose Cup, was a picture of totally shocking pink at dinner: linen bermuda shorts, blazer, baseball hat and shoes. Carol Parker Zola of Lynnfield, sister-in-law of Ellen Parker, principal of Andover High School, was also in shocking pink: a cropped blazer and cowboy hat.

Volunteer Joyce Yameen-Maroun of Methuen wore a patriotic stars and striped sequined baseball cap, which she'd just bought Monday, and a matching jacket. She worked "Lucky 13," watching to see if anyone hit a hole in one there. Linda Crooks of Andover, whose family owns the Butcher Boy Mall in North Andover, worked with Ms. Yameen-Maroun. "We're really enjoying working for this cause," she said.

Joyce Leary of Andover said the tournament is always "well run and very well organized." Pam Kearins of Andover said she'd only missed one Rose Cup, in 1990 when her daughter graduated from Andover High School. Sally Cerasuolo of Haverhill, playing her fifth year, shot a 114, "which is good," she said.

Joyce Bornstein of Peabody, Michelle Feld of Peabody, Mary Jones of Middleton and Diane Lucci of North Reading have won the Rose Cup a couple of times.

Maz DeLuca of Windham, N.H., whose husband, Bill, of Woodworth Chevrolet, donated a car to the tournament, won a haircut in the raffle before dinner. Her hair is half way down her back! She said that the "Rose" of Rose Cup stands for Restoring One's Self Esteem. "We all rose to the occasion today," Ms. DeLuca laughed, referring to playing in the cold and rain.

Dusty McCann of Bradford won a three-piece outfit: shorts, a shirt and vest. Barbara White, who recently moved from Hamilton to Ipswich Country Club, said she was enjoying the event.

Awesome Madness

"It went awesome," is how Youth Services director Bill Fahey describes Saturday's Main Street Madness, the 350th anniversary celebration for kids in this community.

Mr. Fahey figures between 4,000 and 5,000 kids from all over showed up in Andover to play beach volleyball (in a ton of sand behind Old Town Hall), skateboard, in-line skate, sing, watch, dance, play basketball, eat pie, and more. If it hadn't been for the business merchants lost from closing Main Street, it would have been a perfect day.

It was a varied lot: kids with green hair and pierced body parts, clean-cut kids, young ones, Andover High graduates, parents, babies, grandparents, dogs — every age.

There were no police incidents and, Mr. Fahey said, only one injury. A professional BMX rider injured himself during a demonstration and he is all right today.

"This proves what we said about our youth center," Mr. Fahey said. "People of all ages can recreate together."

Every time we dropped by during the early morning and later that afternoon and evening, we saw people having fun. One mother asked Mr. Fahey if Andover could hold more family events. A 75-year-old woman said, "I used to think skateboarders were bad," until she saw the skill the kids used to manipulate their boards on jumps set up on Main Street.

A basketball star from UMass showed up to shoot baskets. A father and son shot baskets together. A rap group of 20 kids from Lawrence mesmerized spectators with their demonstration. About 80 percent of the kids were from Andover, but others were here from Ipswich, North Andover, New Hampshire and other areas.

"By 11:30 it was cranking," Mr. Fahey said, and by noon, all ages knew the meaning of "cranking." People, especially teens, had worked together to have a good time. A couple of the merchants we spoke with Monday said they didn't do their normal amount of Saturday business, but some said they did fine. Main Street Madness was a terrific family event. Let's do it again! Only next time, let's work with everyone, including the merchants. The event could be held behind Old Town Hall, in the municipal parking lot, and in Central Park at Bartlet Street. In the meantime, maybe Bazaar Days later this month could include some events from Madness day.

Taking risks, reaching out with love

By Perry Colmore

"The greatest hazard in life is to risk nothing. Only a person who risks is free."

That's what graduating senior Michael Krupp, president of Phillips Academy, told his classmates during graduation ceremonies Sunday.

Danielle Teves, senior essayist at Andover High's graduation Monday, said, "The world may be a big place, but no part of it is unreachable — and every part is ours."

Perhaps Mr. Krupp and Ms. Teves were preparing me for a thud in my life.

I went on line after PA graduation Sunday to see if I had any e-mail. I learned my friend Cindy had died.

I don't even recall Cindy's last name. But I care deeply about her.

Cindy, of Loomis, Calif., was one of nine women who have been on line writing e-mail to one another since February, talking about cancer. We are a support group; four of us (a verb now) regularly, most days, sometimes more than once a day; the other four write less often, especially Cindy, because she was often unwell, sometimes hospitalized, sometimes depressed.

But she added much to our group. She'd talk about her passion — working with troubled teens. She was having trouble with her medication. We heard from her six hours before she died.

Sunday's e-mail came from a close friend of Cindy and her husband. "To the very good friends of Cindy who have had her in their thoughts and prayers over the last few months, I'm afraid to inform you that Cindy passed away on Friday, May 31st, about 10:30 p.m. ...

"Her husband, Ken, thanks you very much for your support. He is amazed that people who have never met can develop such caring feelings over a computer."

The support we give each other on line is comforting. We can answer questions about medication, treatments and fears.

I think it all began when a woman named Wanda e-mailed me from Florida last February. "I am the same age as you," she wrote, having read my profile from America Online. "And I am battling breast cancer. Will you talk with me?"

Sure I would, I e-mailed back. And in the beginning, there were so many messages that I wasn't sure I had the time, energy or inclination to keep up with the group. The women are from Florida, Oklahoma, California, Georgia and Idaho. Two of us are from Massachusetts, not even 30 minutes apart. Susan and I met in person two weeks ago. It was like greeting a family member I'd never met; or maybe a pen pal whom I'd grown to love.

I write when I want. I don't when I don't want to. But these cybersisters, as we've come to call ourselves, are a tremendous source of support.

So this week when Cindy died, we were stunned. Wanda wrote that this getting close to one another is risky because now we've lost someone we've come to love. She said her family isn't sure she should be getting so close to a bunch of women who talk via computers. We stand to get hurt, she said.

Held hostage by in-line dastardly skaters

Editor, Townsmen:

My name is Mark Vens, Ph.D. I have resided in Andover for all of my 37 years. I am an avid bicyclist, riding in excess of 100 miles per week, 52 weeks per year. In addition, I walk about daily, covering quite a few miles. These avocations, in conjunction with the fact that I reside in close proximity to the center, permits first-hand observation of the many going-ons in and around the center all hours of the day.

I find the recent flurry of pro-active coverage relative to in-line skaters and skate-boarders as disheartening. Why do we permit ourselves to be held hostage by a few dastardly youngsters? What right have they to dictate the terms of our surrender?

Quite simply, their attitudes are unquestionably audacious. Their alleged admissions that pilferage of downtown establishments, the disrespectful, unsafe manner of utilizing skates and boards, would cease when the town provided an alternate place to play is unforgivable. This manner of reasoning is truly fallacious and unacceptable.

If I may begin by asking how many of you cringed when you read the youngsters' remarks, that pilferage, demarcation and disruption of business would cease when provided with an alternative place to go? How avaricious can they be? Shouldn't it be the responsibility of their parents to instill sound morals into these relatively few youngsters? Why on earth are we the ones being held hostage by a few?

I'm certain that many of you have found yourself in the path of a youngster barreling along upon a skateboard or toting a pair of in-line skates. We've all witnessed incidences involving youngsters tearing up our sidewalks, whipping around blind corners without looking, nearly up-ending our elderly, not to mention ourselves. How often have you witnessed these youths blindly darting onto a roadway? Whom hasn't come close to hitting one? Guess whom would have to live with themselves should that occur? Certainly not the youngster. Though I'm certain the parents would certainly be inclined to "then" come forward.

Where then are we expected to provide alternative arenas? I'll tell you. Simply, we shouldn't, though we could refer them to a location utilized by the many. That is behind the old Doherty School. There exists a very nice quarter-of-a-mile track. I witness scores of individuals utilizing same every day, good weather and bad, youngings to elders.

Why then is this satisfactory for the majority of our community, though not sufficient for this minute group of rebellious youngsters? It's obvious. If you have ever witnessed these "punks" strutting their stuff, they love to hop, skip, jump, flip, dip, zip up-n-down, over-n-around, off sidewalks, walls, streets and similar. It's just not kosher for them to utilize a level, pedestrian-free, auto-free, safety receptive area such as a track. No! No! No! Instead, we're expected to invest and provide them with an arena of frivolity. I ask, who in the world would be expected to assume liability for such an endeavor? I'll guarantee you, should one youngster become injured, their parents would fly to their attorney's office before the next setting sun. We shouldn't be expected to entertain such massive liability issues simply to accommodate the whims of a few radical youngsters.

What put me over the edge was the recent news coverage of a youngster named "Tanner" and his flagrant disregard for our law enforcement professionals and behavior which left authorities no option but to react accordingly to subdue him. Thereafter, he literally was "pouting" about having been arrested for openly defying police authority, being combative, and nearly starting a riot by involving nearly 30 additional youngsters whom were standing nearby. I ask, how does he expect the officer to react? Inwardly the officer must have been terrified. How can he reasonably predict the potential reaction of a mass of defiant youngsters?

I for one was raised to respect said authority. Should an officer have cause to query you, submission was expected until the officer completed same. Recently, television has provided us an avenue to understand and appreciate the role of our law enforcement officials more completely via shows such as Cops, L.A.P.D., Court-TV and similar. We have been privy to incidences as experienced from the professional's perspective; the fear and apprehension felt when faced with danger; thoughts of their families and loved ones during a close call; and much more.

I wish to bring to your attention a statement made by Mrs. Tanner following her son's arrest. She indicated that she would do everything in her power to fight the charges pending against her son. I say we as a community should do everything in our power by supporting our police to make the charges stick.

Finally, while scripting this letter, I continuously queried myself relative to issues of liability. I couldn't understand why our community seemingly promotes the negligent use of public avenues by inaction. After much contemplation, I began to feel that there were no definitive answers. Then out of the blue, a news brief on CNN addressed liability issues concerning skateboarders and in-line skaters in San Francisco. I felt vindicated when learning that they were attempting to classify skate boarding and in-line skating as "hazardous recreational activity." Thereby, the community wouldn't be liable for injury caused while pursuing such activity within public arenas. How's that? Further, the introduction of fines and seizures would cause parents to take responsibility, eh?

AHS grad praises Fahey and Campbell for their support of youth

Editor, Townsmen:

The talk on Main Street is that the madness that passed there on Saturday was incredibly organized, extremely safe, and fabulously fun for all those who attended. I joined the organizational side of the event only within the last week. Let me say to all who attended that you have two principal people to thank for the success.

Peg Campbell and Bill Fahey spent countless hours organizing Main Street Madness so that kids in Andover could have fun. The importance of this demonstration of effort is pitifully underscored by newspapers. The thousands of hours donated by parents and businesses without pay, the amusements, the safety, the precautions and the risks are all a product of two people's faith in the youth of this town. They believe that kids are not burdens to be "dealt with" or "tolerated." Instead, youth is something meriting celebration.

Time and time again, Peg and Bill call upon the people of Andover to support youth events with their time and votes. Time and time again they receive help from an extremely small minority of adults. Peg and Bill's efforts show that as a community we are responsible for the positive upbringing of today's youth. But all the hassle they confront for defending Andover's youth, the 14-hour days that they regularly put in, and the family time they sacrifice for the youth of Andover are not even half compensated for in pay nor support.

Those who miscomprehend the importance of youth events have attempted to stifle progress by voting against the youth center proposal, attempting to move Madness off of Main Street, or denying the expansion of the youth services budget beyond the measly $5,000 it now receives.

If those of you who think that youth deserve low priority would contemplate for just a minute the reasons for societal problems today, you would realize that many could have been averted with more endorsement of the Peg and Bills of the world. Catch a glimpse of the look in kids' eyes when they see Peg or Bill walking around town or school and they stop to talk with the youth and remember his/her name and genuinely ask him/her how he/she is. Perhaps then you could understand for just a second the impact these two individuals have had on this town.

They have invigorated kids to believe in themselves. They have impassioned youth to fight against apathy. They have taught kids to care for one another and the condition of the so-called community in which they live. At a time in kids' lives when personal change is confusing and scary, Bill and Peg have provided the security for kids to know that someone cares and that someone thinks they are important.

I have had the sheer pleasure of working with Peg and Bill for three years now. I have seen Andover kids change from conformist students to vibrant expressions of life and individuality. I deeply credit this transformation to Peg and Bill. They are exemplars of what the word community means. For the sake of how future generations develop in Andover, I beg of the townspeople to support them in any possible way. Peg and Bill, you guys are awesome! Thanks.

350th praises Madness

Editor, Townsmen:

The 350th Celebration Committee would like to take our hats off to the youth of Andover for their role this past Saturday in Main Street Madness.

The success of the event is due in large part to your hard work and enthusiasm. Given the opportunity to actively assume responsibility, you rose to the challenge, showing your strength and community spirit.

You took on a difficult challenge, made it a success and had a fun day in the process.

Your involvement in the 350th celebration gave meaning to the youth in our community. We are proud of you and pleased to see the new leaders of Andover emerging. These are the leaders who will make a success of our 400th anniversary.

chairwoman, 350th Celebration

But Cindy's death encouraged Susan to take a new risk. She closed her comments on Cindy's death with "I love you."

And Annie, who doesn't write often, said, "Reading all the messages reaffirms my belief that love and friendship can be nurtured and grow anywhere, including cyberspace. Thanks to this cold piece of hardware and the sometimes incomprehensible software, we are able to meet, and love people all over the world."

I believe that's what Michael Krupp was hinting about Sunday in his address at Phillips. He was talking about taking risks to learn new things, be in new places. I am saying taking the risk to reach out and love one another is what life is all about. Even though Cindy died, I learned from her. I am grateful for having known her.

'We should be flayed alive, our dogs made into stew for kings'

Editor, Townsmen:

How riveted was I by last week's front page tale of good versus evil. By all means, cast out those town-dwelling peasants who seek sanctuary in the Sanctuary and unleash their black beasts upon the golden servants so lawfully tethered to masters like that hero-knight of the PA faculty who so gallantly dashed the snarling canis to the ground.

How dare that peasant woman not "stay" at his command to be chained and beheaded for her miserable insurrection against the feudal laws so tirelessly upheld by our loyal and valiant dog officer.

Yes. Let good prevail and put down the revolt of the people (including a good many PA insurgents) who have for many years, and for the majority of them, harmoniously walked the beautiful, safe, and largely untraveled paths of the Sanctuary, so as to allow their motley curs the right of any living thing: freedom. How dare we be so bold in such a dog-unfriendly town? We should be flayed alive, our dogs wrested from us and made into a stew fit for the consumption of kings.

English visitors felt welcome here

Editor, Townsmen:

The three of us recently spent 10 days in your town with our wives, Joan, Beryl and Joan, and we would like to say a big thank you to everyone with whom we came into contact. We were all overwhelmed by the reception and hospitality we received and none of us can even imagine how it could possibly have been improved.

There are numerous people who should be thanked by name: too many to list, but we would like to thank Eddie and Judy Goonyep of Willard Circle, who not only hosted the Taylors but twice entertained us all, with our hosts, at their home.

Professional Profile

Charles F. McQuade, D.M.D.

After practicing dentistry for 10 years as an associate in the Cambridge and Boston area, Dr. Charles F. McQuade has opened his own comprehensive family dental practice in a new state-of-the-arts office in downtown Andover in the Barnard Building. Using the latest dental techniques and materials with strict sterilization procedures, he is committed to preventative care to help patients keep all their teeth all their lives.

"It's an exciting time to be a dentist and look at the evolution of materials and techniques since I started dental school," he said. "The options are truly amazing for patients."

The most current dental adhesives, for example, allow dentists to be more conservative and prolong the life of restorations, Dr. McQuade explained. Bleaching is a non-invasive technique that does not require any drilling but can greatly improve ones appearance. There are procedures to treat gum and root problems that just a few years ago would have meant lost teeth. And for those who did not grow in the era of preventative care and have lost teeth, there are now implants available.

Unlike dentures or partial dentures, implants enable people to chew more efficiently and thus with better nutrition improve their overall health.

Dr. McQuade received his dental training at Boston University and also trained at Tufts University in treatment of temporo-mandibular - facial pain problems, and where he conducted research and was a member of the faculty. He has also done research in implantology and has had implant training with the Boston Seminars in Implant Dentistry, where he also continues to teach. In addition, he has expertise in cosmetics and treating gum disease. He has the added credential of being a fellow of the Academy of General Dentistry.

Dr. McQuade said he opened his practice in Andover because he likes the small-town feel here with its close proximity to Boston. Those interested in setting up a dental appointment may call Dr. McQuade at 470-8855.

PROSTATE SEED IMPLANT

You have prostate cancer. Now, you have a choice.

It's called radioactive seed implant therapy. And

Holy Family Hospital is one of the few hospitals in New England to offer this latest breakthrough in prostate cancer treatment. No radical surgery nor prolonged external radiation is required. And normal activities are resumed within 48 hours — usually while retaining complete urinary and sexual functions, and with few or no long-term side effects.

For many men, it's a more effective, more comfortable
choice than prostate removal or prolonged external radiation. For more information on prostate

Group seeks to connect walkways in Andover

By Don Staruk

A group of residents is promoting development of a path system to connect neighborhoods, schools, parks, business and services in town.

Margaret Pustell, of 85 Porter Road, spokesperson for Andover Community Paths, told selectmen Monday night the group is looking to resurrect old paths as well as acquire and construct new ones all over town. One of the group's goals is to amend the planning policies and practices so that they encourage, if not require, new developments to provide such access ways.

Andover Community Path volunteers will identify existing paths and install logo tags along them identifying them as public ways. Ms. Pustell said the group will also encourage residents to identify corridors in their neighborhoods that could be converted into public paths - to access schools, shopping areas, playgrounds, conservation areas or just to connect one path or street to another - and to talk to the property owners about making those areas available. Some neighbors may be willing to donate land to the paths program, Ms. Pustell said.

The developer of the Fieldstone Meadows subdivision off Dascomb Road donated a strip of land and constructed a path connecting to Chester Street, leading to Ballardvale, Ms. Pustell said. A developer in Shawsheen is working with the town to provide a walking path from Hussey's Brook to Canterbury and Stafford streets to Lowell Street.

A group of local residents recently cleared out a pathway leading from High Plain Road to West Elementary School, that is now being used again by children walking to the school. More pathways could mean fewer students needing to be bused to schools, proponents of the path program say.

Ms. Pustell showed selectmen a map of the town and pointed out various existing and potential pathways. She also pointed out areas, including one off Lovejoy Road near Sanborn School, where housing developments have become roadblocks between neighborhoods. Some developers, even recently, have resisted providing public access across their properties, Ms. Pustell said.

Steve Colyer, town planning director, said planners already use what influence they can to pressure developers into providing access so as not to land-lock conservation or other public-use areas. But that's not always possible and planners are limited as to how much they can legally do to encourage a developer to cooperate, Mr. Colyer said.

Selectman Larry Larsen voiced support for the Path program. Selectman Jim Barenboim pointed out that many sidewalks in town are so overgrown with vegetation they are impassable, including one on his own street, Bateson Drive. Mr. Barenboim said he doesn't know why people are not held responsible for keeping the walkways in front of their properties clear, but said that is something that has never been enforced.

Selectmen said the Paths presentation was well timed, since they were scheduled to meet tonight, Thursday, at 7:30 p.m. in town offices, to discuss residential growth in town and what, if anything, can or should be done to control or manage it.

Victory paces No. 2 seed Andover into the Division 1 North quarterfinals

By Rick Harrison

Rob Busby, Mark O'Sullivan and Mark Langone were key contributors as the Andover High varsity baseball team opened play in the MIAA Division 1 North Tournament with a hard-fought 4-3 victory over Billerica last weekend at Wilmington High.

Busby, the No. 3 man in the pitching rotation, scattered 10 hits, struck out seven, walked only one and threw 117 pitches in eight-plus innings to register the win.

O'Sullivan worked the ninth in relief (tournament games are nine innings), picking up the save, and Langone's key two-run triple in the bottom of the eighth proved to be the game-winning hit.

The victory moved No. 2 seed Andover into the Division 1 North quarterfinals, where they were scheduled to face another Merrimack Valley Conference rival, Chelmsford, this past Tuesday at Mark Devlin Field in Lawrence.

Either Jason Caverly (6-0) or Langone (8-0) was scheduled to do the pitching.

Andover and Chelmsford (13-8 record) split two regular season games, the Lions winning a wild 14-10 decision early in the season and the Golden Warriors capturing the rematch, 7-3.

Chelmsford advanced to the quarters with a 4-2 first-round win over Medford.

Coach Ken Maglio's crew also completed the regular season with a closer-than-it-looks 17-5 triumph over Revere last week.

The two recent wins enabled MVC Large School co-champ AHS to enter Tuesday's tournament game against Chelmsford with a 17-4 overall record and a five-game win streak.

All-Star Game

Junior Captain Brian Tisbert and senior Captain Mark Langone pitched one perfect 1-2-3 inning each for the Merrimack Valley Conference Large School Division All-Stars, who defeated their Middlesex League counterparts 4-0 in last week's annual All-Star Game between the two leagues played under the lights at Morelli Field in Melrose.

Langone struck out one batter, and Tisbert was credited with the pitching victory.

Tisbert, hitting lead-off, also laced a key RBI single in the fifth to help break a scoreless tie and give the winners a 3-0 lead.

MVC Large School MVP Langone chipped in one single in three at-bats.

Other Andover All-Star representatives were sophomore Jason Caverly, who played center field and batted twice, and senior Ken Oppenheim who patrolled right field and batted twice.

Andover head coach Ken Maglio directed the MVC squad to victory.

Statistics

The Golden Warriors have impressive statistics through their first 21 games (does not include Chelmsford).

Brian Tisbert continues to lead the Golden Warriors in hitting with a .534 average on 31 hits in 58 at bats.

Mark Langone is second among the regulars with a .394 mark on 26-for-66. Mark O'Sullivan is .393 on 24-for-61. Ken Oppenheim .387 on 24-for-62. Jason Caverly .381 on 32-for-84. The team batting average is a hefty .374.

Tisbert is tops in runs scored with 32. O'Sullivan has 26. Caverly 21. Langone 20 and Ken Oppenheim 19.

Langone has 23 RBI. Vickers and Caverly 22 each. Maglio 18. O'Sullivan 17. Ken Oppenheim and Tisbert 15 each.

Dick Collins Night is Monday, June 24

By Rick Harrison

Friends and admirers from several New England states, and perhaps as far away as Texas, are expected to congregate at the Ramada Rolling Green on Lowell Street on Monday night, June 24, to pay tribute to longtime Andover High teacher and coach Dick Collins.

"Dick Collins Night," a retirement testimonial, will honor the man whose academic and athletic achievements during his 37-year career at AHS have grown to legendary proportions.

Since arriving on the local scene to stay in 1959 (he was a postgraduate student at Phillips Academy a decade earlier), Collins has coached Andover football and track teams to more than 500 wins and fewer than 200 losses.

His football teams suffered through only three losing seasons the past 25 years, winning outright or sharing seven league titles and capturing back-to-back Eastern Mass. Division 2 Super Bowl championships in 1973 and '74.

His outdoor track teams (men for 37 years and women for 17) have a dual meet winning percentage over .900.

In addition to innumerable league championships for both track teams, the men also won 12 Class titles, seven All-State crowns and two New England championships in 1970 and 1984. The women's teams won three Class championships.

Collins, a native of Rhode Island, is a member of four Athletic Halls of Fame including the National High School Track Hall of Fame and Massachusetts State Halls in both football and track.

On the academic front, Collins taught various history courses at Andover High for 37 years and served as chairman of the school's history department. He has also taught summer courses at his alma mater, Phillips Academy.

Collins, who has battled health problems with typical ferocity over the past year, announced his retirement from teaching and coaching football at Andover last December to accept a less-stressful position as assistant coach (offensive coordinator) with good friend Tom Caito for the fledgling Merrimack College varsity football team.

(Collins and longtime Chelmsford High coach Caito will also be honored by the Merrimack Valley Conference athletic directors and principals at their season-ending meeting June 11).

Collins has not yet officially ruled out the possibility of continuing in his position as head coach of outdoor track at Andover High.

"We're leaving (the spring track position) open at this time," said AHS athletic director Jim Hurley. "Dick loves track and he loves being with the kids, so we'll see what he wants to do."

Collins is very well respected among his coaching peers as an innovator and teacher, strong on "tough-love" discipline and character development, and he also has the respect of the many thousand AHS athletes he guided for close to four decades.

Sure sellout

There is no question the night will be a sellout, and those hoping to attend are advised to purchase their tickets well in advance and as soon as possible.

The evening begins with a social hour at 6 p.m., dinner at 7:15 and the testimonial portion of the program will wrap things up.

At least two state representatives will be on hand with numerous gifts, plaques and proclamations to be presented.

The Collins Night committee, headed by former Andover politician and school official Gerry Silverman, has at least one blockbuster announcement planned.

Some of the speakers will undoubtedly use the forum to "roast" coach Collins with good-natured anecdotes, stories and remembrances. The man of the hour will also have rebuttal time.

The Ramada Rolling Green Inn is located at 311 Lowell St. (Route 123), at the junction of Route 93 across from the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) building.

Individual tickets are available at $30 per person and reserved tables of 10 are also available.

AHS men's varsity volleyball team ready for tournament

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High men's varsity volleyball team, which finished the regular season exactly two weeks ago, opens play in the MIAA State Tournament tonight when it hosts Natick in a 7 p.m. first round match at the Dunn Gymnasium.

Coach George Sullivan's squad, which is riding a six-match win streak and completed the regular season 15-5 overall after winning nine of its last 10, was seeded No. 6 in the original field of 22 qualifying teams.

Natick, 15-6 and the No. 11 seed, defeated Quincy 3-0 in one of six preliminary round matches played last Friday and Monday to reduce the field to 16 teams.

Natick swept the match by 17-15, 15-8 and 15-12 scores. Tournament matches are best-of-5 games.

"They have two very good middle hitters," said coach Sullivan, who scouted the Natick-Quincy match. "We've never played Natick before, but they're from a

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

WORKING TO KEEP YOU WORKING

It is little wonder that those who were out of work for extended periods of time with back pain were labeled "malingers." The stay-in-bed prescription has been a standard part of traditional medicine's treatment for back pain until relatively recently when a study showed that patients with acute low back pain who continued ordinary activities recovered more rapidly than those who were prescribed bed rest. The study of 162 patients revealed that within one week, just 20% of those in the normal activity were still absent from work, compared to 41% of those assigned to bed rest. This study simply reaffirms what chiropractors have been practicing all along, a regimen of soft tissue work and spinal manipulation intended to get the patient back on his or her feet as soon as possible. Chiropractic's record for enabling people with back pain to resume work and normal activity is unmatched.

At DeLORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, we provide gentle and safe chiropractic care for the whole family. So, if you're hurting with back pain or headaches, or arm and neck pain, call us at 475-5042 to schedule an appointment. Find out how you can benefit with the most advanced health care treatments, naturally! Chiropractic medicine is a highly effective and recognized method of health care. We're located at 15 Central Street.

P.S. Chiropractic treatment for back pain encourages greater range of motion and flexibility, unlike bed rest which causes muscles to atrophy and flexibility to be lost.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

TYING UP PERIODONTITIS

The latest treatment being used by dentists to prevent periodontitis involves wrapping the base of the tooth with a floss-like fiber coated with an antibiotic in hopes of killing off bacterial that reside in diseased gum pockets. It is in these pockets that bacteria congregate and attack tissues that attach teeth to the gums. As the pockets enlarge, the bacteria may root their way down to the bone that holds teeth in place, resulting in teeth that loosen and fall out. To prevent this progression to periodontitis (advanced gum disease), the dentist wraps the yellow fiber saturated with antibiotics around the tooth in the gum pockets beneath the gumline. There it resides for a period of ten days, all the while releasing small amounts of tetracycline. According to studies, this germ-fighting strategy yields a significant reduction in gum pockets and bleeding, with results lasting up to six months.

It is estimated that more than half of all people over age 18 have at least the early stage of periodontal disease. After age 35, about three out of four adults are affected. Protect yourself and your family - practice conscientious home care, have regular checkups, and eat a healthy diet. We'll help too at 296 Lowell Street, Rt. 133, with easy access off Rt. 93 because we care about you and the health of your teeth and gums. Call 475-2431. We have office hours Mon. & Thurs. 10-8, Tues. & Fri. 8-6, and by appointment.

P.S. Up until the strategy of wrapping teeth with fiber saturated with antibiotics was introduced, the traditional means of treating receding, infected gums that did not respond to vigilant periodontal cleaning was gum surgery.

Track season steams into final weekend

By Rick Harrison

Junior Peter Ellis is the 1996 All-State men's high school pole vault champion.

He is also one of four Andover High track athletes who qualified for the New England Championship Meet this weekend by placing among the top four in their specialties at the annual Massachusetts All-State Track and Field Championships last Saturday at Bridgewater State College.

Ellis, Erik DeMarco, Adam Westaway and Susan Ashlock will all journey to Brown University in Providence, R.I. this Saturday for the season-ending New England Meet.

Andover men

The Andover men qualified three athletes for the All-State Meet and the trio combined to score 22 points.

Ellis earned 10 points when he cleared 13 feet to add the All-State title to the Class B championship he won the previous weekend at Reading High.

"Again I think (assistant coach) Wayne Arsenaault deserves a tremendous amount of credit for what he's done with our pole vaulters this season," said coach Dick Collins.

"For some reason all the vaulters were having trouble clearing height," said Collins. "Even Peter struggled. He had a few misses on the way up, but he was the only one to clear 13 feet. That included the Central Mass. champ who had done 14 feet before."

Erik DeMarco, the Class B 300-meter intermediate hurdles champion, finished second to winner Matt Collins from Acton-Boxboro with a strong 39.65 clocking.

"I had him at 39.3 but the official (fully-automatic) time was 39.65," said coach Collins. "Erik lost his balance for a split second on the last hurdle going around the final turn. He was ahead to that point but the Acton kid caught him."

Collins, the Class A champ from A-B, broke the tape in 38.83.

Adam Westaway, the Class B triple jump champ, placed fourth in that event and was less than three inches behind the winner in the extremely close competition.

Westaway soared 45'2 3/4," three inches better than his winning Class B leap but shy of his personal-best 45'6" effort at the Haverhill Invitational earlier this spring.

"You won't see many big meets where the four jumpers are less than three inches apart," said Collins.

Andover women

Susan Ashlock, whose superb record-shattering AHS track career is almost at an end, was the only scorer for the Lady Warriors with a fourth place in the two-mile run.

Her 11:15.2 clocking was more than eight seconds faster than last week's winning 11:23.7

Warrior pitcher Mark Langone drives hitters batty

By Eric M. Danis

Andover High School Warrior pitching sensation Mark Langone recently explained that he sometimes experiences nervousness before a big game. He says, "The night before, I don't get much sleep." If Langone has been restless, his opponents must be downright insomniacs before playing the Warriors, as this senior captain's dominant pitching and power hitting has proved unstoppable throughout the year.

At presstime yesterday, Langone's overpowering statistics include an undefeated record of 8-0, a 0.79 ERA, in addition to a .394 batting average and 23 RBIs from the clean-up hitter.

His versatile play has led the warriors to Merrimack Valley Conference and Lawrence Invitational Tournament titles while garnering him the MVP in both of these tournaments. Langone will also be featured as an All-Scholastic in the Boston Globe.

Langone's fluid pitching style and smooth delivery belie the fact that, although he has always pitched, it wasn't until as late as junior year in high school that he really focused on the position. "I pitched all my career, but I didn't concentrate on pitching 'til last year."

Langone rarely pitched in his freshman and sophomore years, but in his junior year opportunity knocked. Graduation stripped the Warriors of top-notch pitchers such as Todd Murray, Tim Caverly, and Matt Wolcott. Langone noticed the dearth of pitchers.

"I saw that I needed to be a good pitcher." He delivered, with a 4-1 record and a 1.80 ERA.

However, Langone wasn't satisfied as he felt that he could improve upon his pitching and his .217 batting average. When asked why Langone improved in virtually every statistical category this year, manager Kenneth Maglio points to Langone's work ethic. Maglio says, "He shows that hard work pays off. He's gotten what he deserves." Langone has always worked hard in the off-season, as in the summers after eighth grade, freshmen and sophomore year Langone played on an AAU team that traveled to a national tournament every year. This team, which was made up of players from around the area, played 20 games a year and won a bronze medal in 1994. Last summer Langone played on the American Legion Post 8 team, and his hard work "last year in Legion was what turned my hitting around."

Langone also worked to

improve his pitching last summer, as he threw more than ever. He says, "This year I knew I'd have to do more pitching, so I tried to do a lot of pitching in the off-season."

Langone's undefeated pitching record is made all the more impressive by the fact that he isn't the type of pitcher who can rear back and throw a fastball on every pitch.

Coach Maglio notes that "Langone is not an overpowering pitcher," while Mark himself admits that "I'm not going to blow anyone away." Although Langone did rely on his fast ball this year at times this year, he is more of a cerebral pitcher who uses location to bewilder batters. This style of pitching requires "a lot of thinking," according to Langone. He frequently tries to trick his opposition into swinging at a curve or knuckleball, trying to "throw what they're not expecting."

Maglio explained that "Langone is always ahead of the count. He makes the batter hit his pitches, rather than the ones they want." This type of approach takes intelligence, as Langone relies on scouting in order to know each hitter's favorite pitches.

Mark isn't the only dominant baseball player in the Langone family, as Mark's cousin Steve Langone played at Reading High School and will be attending Boston College next year on a full scholarship. Mark calls him "one of the most talented players I've ever seen." Mark, an honor roll student who took several AP classes this year, will attend Stonehill College on a partial scholarship.

Langone knows that since he and teammate Kenny Oppenheim are the only two seniors on this year's team, many people believed that this was to be a rebuilding year. Langone admits that his tremendous success this year "is something I just didn't expect." He also says, "Everyone I talked to didn't expect much from the team." Langone, who was elected captain by his teammates, credits many people for the team's success. He says, "It's easy to win when your team scores 10 runs a game," and "I've got a great defense." The coaches also receive praise from Langone. He says that "[pitching coach] Chris Eggert has helped me a lot," while "having such a great season can be attributed to [Coach Maglio's] coaching." Langone even praises the fans, saying, "We've been getting great fan support."

Despite Langone's modest nature, it is clear that the Warriors post-season run is going to be centered around their star hurler and power slugger.

Langone says that in the post-season, "If we play each game the way we're capable, there aren't many teams that can beat us."

One thing remains certain. If Langone maintains his level of play into the post-season, there will be many more sleepless nights for opponents of Andover High School.

Saggese stars for Miami in World Series

By Rick Harrison

Local sports fans who happened to tune in to the College World Series game between the universities of Miami and Alabama last Sunday afternoon on ESPN got an eyeful of former Andover resident Rick Saggese.

Tisbert named Male Student-Athlete of Year

By Rick Harrison

Andover High junior football and baseball standout Brian Tisbert has been named Male Student-Athlete of the Year for 1996.

Tisbert will be among those honored at the Merrimack Valley Student-Athletes of the Year Awards Luncheon to be held next Wednesday, June 12 in the Garden Court of the Ramada Rolling Green in Andover (311 Lowell St.).

The luncheon will begin at noon.

The event is sponsored by Moynihan Lumber Co. of North Reading, Beverly and Plaistow, N.H.

Tisbert is the quarterback, placekicker and safety on the varsity football team, and is currently hitting well over .500 and playing strong defense at short-stop for the AHS varsity baseball team. The team earned a share of the Merrimack Valley Conference Large School championship this spring and was scheduled to play Chelmsford in an MIAA Division 1 North Tournament quarter-final game this past Tuesday.

Licata voted co-MVP in MVC All-Star Game

By Rick Harrison

Andover High varsity softball captain and third baseman Elaine Licata was voted co-Most Valuable Player of last week's Merrimack Valley Conference All-Star Game played under the lights at Monahan Field in Dracut.

Licata had a key hit and played well in the field to help her Greater Lawrence All-Star team edge out the Greater Lowell All-Stars, 8-6.

Saggese, a lefty slugger hitting No. 8 in the Miami lineup, got the Hurricanes started on their way to a resounding 15-1 victory when he belted a three-run, opposite-field homer in the top of the second inning to give the winners an early 3-0 lead in the game at Omaha, Neb.

He later contributed a single in a 10-run Miami explosion in the third inning.

Saggese, whose home run carried into the first row of seats in the left center field bleachers, has been an offensive sparkplug this spring for perennial NCAA Division 1 power Miami.

After missing the past two seasons rehabbing from a pair of ACL injuries, one to each knee, Saggese has belted 13 home runs, driven in 49 runs and is batting .339 for the Hurricanes.

Former Los Angeles Dodgers multi-time All-Star Steve Garvey, doing color commentary for the game, called Saggese's swing one of the most technically sound he has ever seen from a college player.

This is the second World Series in which Saggese has played.

While a 12-year-old Andover resident in 1988, Saggese helped pitch and slug the Andover National Little League All-Stars to District 14, Massachusetts State and Eastern Regional championships to advance the locals into the eight-team international Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa.

Saggese hit several dramatic home runs and won seven games on the mound during that memorable run for the local Little Leaguers.

His strong recovery from the back-to-back knee injuries, which followed an All-American high school baseball career, make Saggese's dreams of one day being drafted to play professional ball again a possibility.

Saggese now makes his home in Naples, Fla.

good league (Bay State) and they qualify for the tournament on a regular basis. Last year they reached the state semifinals before losing to (eventual state champ) New Bedford.

Andover is no stranger to tournament success, having reached the state semifinals three times and battled to the state final last June before also losing to New Bedford.

Top players this season for the locals include senior Captains Pat Hess and Joe Hogarty, seniors Jeoung An, Pat Sharkey, Jon Adams, Eric Bourassa and Chris Rogers, and juniors Zach Gray and David An.

To help keep the cobwebs from collecting during the two week layoff, coach Sullivan scheduled a Varsity versus Alumni (Sean Croteau, Tim Foley, Glenn Wilson) match Tuesday and was working on a scrimmage match with tourney qualifier Bilerica for yesterday.

"Two weeks between matches is tough but most of the qualifiers are in the same boat," said coach Sullivan.

The winner of tonight's match is expected to face MVC/North Alliance champion Methuen in the quarterfinals.

Hogarty honored

Joe Hogarty added another award to his growing 1996 list when the Golden Warriors' middle hitter was named a first-team All-Scholastic last week.

the team's nine home runs, while adding one each are Busby, Caverly, Maglio, O'Sullivan (grand slam), Tisbert and Vickers.

Langone has 49 total bases, Tisbert 47 and Caverly 45.

Tisbert has an .810 slugging percentage, Langone .742, Caverly .536 and O'Sullivan .508.

Tisbert owns a .646 on-base percentage, O'Sullivan .537 and Langone .506.

Pitching

Senior righthander Mark Langone is 8-0 with a 0.79 earned run average. In 53 innings he has yielded 34 hits and six earned runs while fanning 48, walking 23 and hitting two batters.

Sophomore lefthander Jason Caverly is 6-0 with a 1.64 ERA. In 47 innings he has allowed 41 hits and 11 earned runs while whiffing 35, walking 21 and hitting two batters.

Junior lefty Rob Busby is 2-1 with a 2.67 ERA. In 21 innings he has surrendered 18 hits and eight earned runs while striking out 18, walking nine and hitting five.

EMass. North Tournament

Andover 4

Billerica 3

The tourney win came much harder than an 11-2 Andover victory in the teams' only regular season meeting on April 26.

"Mark Langone was experiencing some soreness in his throwing arm, and Jason Caverly had just three days rest after throwing a lot of pitches in a complete-game win over Revere," said coach Maglio. "So we went with Buzzer and he did a terrific job."

It's the first time the junior lefty has ever gone eight innings, and his excellent control is what enabled him to last that long.

The locals erased a 1-0 Billerica (10-11 record) lead with a run in the bottom of the second. Steve Vickers doubled to center field, Ben Gibson laced a single, and Joe Maglio's fielder's choice grounder plated Vickers with the tying run.

Rival pitchers Busby and Garrett MacKinnon matched goose-eggs until the eighth, when AHS finally broke the 1-1 tie with three runs.

Busby started the uprising by reaching on an error. Brian Tisbert singled, the pair worked a double steal, and for the eighth time this season Ken Oppenheim was hit by a pitch.

Caverly laced a bases-loaded grounder to first and the throw home erased Busby on the forceout. The catcher's throw back to first, trying for the 3-2-3 double play, was off the mark and Tisbert raced across with the go-ahead run.

Langone followed with his long two-run triple to right field to make it 4-1.

Billerica, home town of former Cy Young Award winner and 1995 World Series MVP Tom Glavine, did not go quietly.

MacKinnon and Steve Fell opened the ninth with consecutive singles off the tiring Busby.

O'Sullivan entered at this point and struck out Rich Clement. He then uncorked a wild pitch, the ball hitting the plate, to advance MacKinnon to third. Jay Norton made the second out, but also plated a run with a sacrifice fly.

Phil Markunas followed by lacing an RBI single to center, closing the gap to 4-3 and putting the tying run at first base.

"Sully struck out the next batter on three fastballs to end the game," said coach Maglio. "He threw three BBs right past him."

Defensive standouts for Andover included Maglio behind the plate and Caverly, who made a fine running catch in center field.

Maglio held his ground and tagged out Fell at the plate in the second inning, when a pitchout foiled a Billerica suicide squeeze try.

"The pitchout was playing a hunch on our part," said coach Maglio. "The situation was right for it and the call got us out of a jam."

The Golden Warriors also turned a 1-6-3 double play that went from Busby to Tisbert to Vickers.

Leadoff batter Tisbert finished with two hits and Caverly added one for the winners, who were out-hit 11-6 in the game.

"We hit the ball hard but right at people," said coach Maglio. "It was one of those games."

Regular Season

Andover 17

Revere 5

Brian Tisbert drove home four runs with his first homer of the season, and a pair of long triples, to power the Golden Warriors past Revere in their final pre-tournament tuneup at Revere.

The non-league regular season makeup win avenged a 7-2 loss to the Patriots on April 20.

Steve Vickers and Rob Busby were also big-time contributors to the locals' 17-hit barrage, and 10th double-figure run output, with three hits and three RBI each. Busby scored three runs and Vickers two.

Revere was riding high with a 5-1 lead entering the sixth inning, but Andover exploded for 10 runs in that stanza before adding six more in the seventh to make it a runaway.

Jason Caverly (6-0) was beneficiary of the barrage, notching the mound win after yielding 11 hits and five runs in seven innings. He struck out four and walked only one.

The Golden Warriors' lone early run was a bases-empty homer to center field by Tisbert in the top of the third.

Revere scored twice in the second and increased its lead to 5-1 with three more runs in the bottom of the third.

AHS paraded 14 batters to the plate in the 10-run sixth.

Ben Gibson reached on an error to get the uprising started, and consecutive singles by Joe Maglio and Busby loaded the bases. Tisbert walked to force home a run, Caverly laced a one-out RBI single, and run-scoring walks to Mark Langone and Mark O'Sullivan tied the game 5-5.

Vickers followed with a sharp opposite-field single to left, rescuing two go-ahead runs, and Maglio reached on a two-out error to plate O'Sullivan.

Busby spanked a two-run single for his second hit of the inning, and Tisbert completed the onslaught with an RBI triple to make it 11-5.

The six-run seventh started with two out and no one on base, after Langone walked and a pinch-runner was thrown out stealing.

O'Sullivan clouted a double to left, Vickers singled for his third RBI, Gibson singled to center and Maglio belted a two-run double to left.

Busby ripped an RBI single, Tisbert drilled his second triple and third extra-base hit of the game to center to plate Busby, and Tisbert continued home on a throwing error.

Caverly, O'Sullivan and Maglio finished with a double and single each, while Ken Oppenheim contributed one hit.

Maglio also scored three runs while Gibson and O'Sullivan scored twice each.

The 17 runs were the second most this season, surpassed only by the 18 against Malden (another Greater Boston League member) two games earlier in the Lawrence Invitational Tournament semifinals.

Andover Senior League baseball action continues

Andover Senior League baseball action continued this past week at the Doherty Middle School field, with the Pirates winning twice and the Blue-jays once.

ca scored the winning run in the top of the seventh.

Third baseman Brian Froburg made a terrific catch of a Matt James' line drive in the bottom of the seventh, doubling up the runner at third after the catch to end the game on an exciting note.

Froburg pitched the first four innings, yielding three hits and fanning seven.

Paul Wysocki earned the victory with three frames of two-hit, two-strikeout relief.

James played an outstanding all-around game for the Sox with two RBI, two runs scored and strong defense at second base (five assists, several putouts).

Mike Lewis pitched well for the Sox, and right fielder Gabe Fonseca made a nice catch of a long fly ball in the second inning.

The Pirates jumped to an early 5-0 lead in the first inning, but needed the late rally to overcome a seven-run Red Sox fourth.

Bluejays 11 Pirates 9

Dave Guertin lashed two hits for the Jays, while Ryan Nugent and Brian Wittbold scored three runs apiece to spark the offense.

Bob Heitz and Wittbold split the pitching duties for the winners, while Sam Dadd was a defensive standout at first base.

Brian Froburg spanked two hits and Brian Crowley scored three runs to lead the Pirates.

Pirates 6 Cardinals 5

Pitchers Chris King (four innings) and Brian Froburg (two innings) combined for a one-hitter and eight strikeouts in the Pirates' victory.

The Pirates, trailing 5-4, pushed across two runs in the bottom of the sixth to pull it out with a bases-loaded walk to Brian DeAngelo forcing home a key run.

Sparkling a big third inning for the winners were a bases-loaded, two-run single by Brian Crowley and an RBI double by King.

Center fielder DeAngelo also preserved the win by running down a deep fly ball stroked by the Cards' Troy LoRusso.

Mark Russo spoiled the no-hit bid with a run-scoring single that put the Cards ahead 5-4 in the top of the fifth.

Pitcher Corey Zalewski yielded only two hits and fanned three during his stint for the Cards, and battery mate Dave Mason threw out two Pirate runners at third base in the third inning.

effort in the Class B Meet, where she wasn't pushed hard by the runner-up.

However, it was also well behind the All-State winner who finished in 11:02.

Two other AHS women had strong non-scoring performances.

Class B long jump champ Missy Famiglietti uncoiled a 16'6 1/2" leap and Courtney Barron matched her personal-best 48.9 clocking in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles.

Injuries to sprinter

Randi Spiegel (last week) and hurdler Barbara Contos (at this meet) left the Lady Warriors at less than full strength.

All-Conference

Six individuals and two relay teams from Andover have been selected 1996 first-team Merrimack Valley All-Conference in track and field.

Locals honored in the men's division are Peter Ellis in the pole vault, Matt Herling (two-mile) and Erik DeMarco (300-meter intermediate hurdles).

Lady Warriors' chosen are Missy Famiglietti in the triple jump, Erin Harris (high jump) and Susan Ashlock (two-mile).

The AHS women also placed two relay teams on the All-Conference squad, the 4x100 quartet of Randi Spiegel, Beth Har, Famiglietti and Barbara Contos and the 4x800 foursome of Ashlock, Leslie Ring, Meghan Roth and Liz Kelley.

Several other Andover athletes were picked as MVC Large School All-Stars.

Named in the men's division are Tim Smith (long jump), Adam Westaway (triple jump), Matt MacKenzie (pole vault), Rudy Morando (javelin), Donnie Pattullo (800 meters) and the 4x100 sprint relay team of DeMarco, Josh Hatch, Adam Espinola and Matt Aufiero.

AHS women's Large

Andover Massage Therapy

Anyone who has asked a friend to rub their shoulders would probably love a therapeutic massage. Through skilled, sensitive touch, which soothes your aches and pains, therapeutic massage at Andover Massage Therapy can be an excellent strategy to overcome the effects of chronic pain and stress in your life.

Many complaints involving soft tissue dysfunction (low back pain, stiff neck, restricted shoulders, tendinitis, carpal tunnel syndrome, etc.) respond well to muscle manipulation.

Sometimes pain is caused by trigger points in the muscles themselves. This initial pain causes the muscle to spasm which results in decreased blood flow to the area and increased pain. Deep tissue massage and Trigger Point work can break this pain spasm cycle. Stress worsens any muscle complaint, so by reducing the tension level in the body the pain often decreases.

Many people are discovering that massage can be a useful part of one's preventative health care. Faced with the stress of our fast paced way of life, for many massage is far from being an "indulgence" as it means fewer headaches, less pain and a greater level of functioning in everyday life.

Three massage therapists work out of Andover Massage Therapy. Ken St. Pierre specializes in sports massage and deep tissue work. Liz Anderson combines trigger point work with craniosacral therapy. Owner Judy Kilcoyne excels at deep tissue work for specific problems areas and massage for pregnant women. All are licensed by the Town of Andover, Nationally Certified, and active members of the American Massage Therapy Association.

Andover Massage Therapy now has two treatment rooms and is open over 60 hours a week. Calls for information or appointments are returned promptly. Gift Certificates are available for full hour or half hour sessions. The office of Andover Massage Therapy is located downtown in Olde Andover Village. After cruising to tops in conference, AHS tennis teams bow out

By Rick Harrison

A determined and gutsy performance by sophomore sparkler Lauren Roda at No. 2 singles lifted the Andover High women's tennis team past Wakefield, 3-2, in their MIAA Division 1 North Tournament opener last weekend.

Ecstasy turned to agony 24 hours later, however, when the Lady Warriors' 1996 season came to an abrupt end with a 3-2 quarterfinal round tourney loss to Acton-Boxboro.

The AHS men also bowed out in the Division 1 North quarterfinals, a resounding 5-0 first-round victory over Peabody followed by a 4-1 loss to Dual County League champion Newton South in the quarters.

This marked the third straight year nemesis Newton South has bumped the AHS men from the tournament.

In last week's regular season finales, the men blanked Central Catholic, 5-0, and the women whitewashed Methuen, 5-0.

Coach Tony Russo's AHS women finished the season at 15-1 overall, while coach Mike Wartman's AHS men closed at 17-2.

Both coasted to Merrimack Valley Conference championships, and the women are now 182-11 in their last 193 matches while the men are 217-24 in their last 241.

Probably the most amazing statistic for the AHS men's juggernaut this spring was only two lost sets and a 160-2 overall set record in the 16 league matches.

Awards

Junior Heather Young and senior Mike Stein repeated as Merrimack Valley Conference Players-of-the-Year, both finishing undefeated in league matches at the No. 1 position for their respective AHS championship teams.

Also earning All-Conference honors in singles for the Andover women were sophomore No. 2 Lauren Roda and senior No. 3 Cindy Su.

Senior Captains Andrea Marvin and Meghan Pauley, along with sophomores Rebecca Parks and Emily Wilner, were selected as MVC All-Stars in doubles.

On the men's side, senior Captain Kurt Dahlstrand was chosen All-Conference at No. 2 singles and junior Ross Fenton at No. 3 singles.

Seniors Ravi Tharisiy and Marc Formichella are the All-Conference No. 1 doubles team in the men's division, while senior Andy Ravens and sophomore Dave Gutstein were chosen All-Conference at No. 2 doubles.

MIAA Tournament First Round

Andover women 3 Wakefield 2

The team score was tied 2-2, and every other match had long since ended, when Lauren Roda finally secured the decisive victory at No. 2 singles in her three-hour, three-set marathon against Wakefield's Danielle Staple at the Andover High courts.

It became a battle of physical and mental toughness between the two players, both of whom possess excellent backhands and play a similar baseline serve and volley style.

It was also a classic come-from-behind win for Roda, who fought an uphill struggle from the beginning.

She lost the first set, 2-6, but bounced back to win the second by the reverse 6-2 score.

Staple jumped ahead 5-3 in the third set and was just four points from ending the Lady Warriors' season.

Roda refused to fold, however, as she rallied to win the next two games and forge a 5-5 tie against the tiring Staple.

Staple won the 11th game before diminutive dynamo Roda once again regrouped to capture the 12th game and force the 13-point tiebreaker.

Roda never trailed in the tiebreaker, taking a quick 2-0 lead and trading points before pulling ahead 6-3 with a perfectly-placed service ace. She closed out the game, set and match when Staple hit a return beyond the end line.

Roda won the tiebreaker, 7-4, but the two players almost kept going from force of habit before officials finally told them the match was over.

In addition to Roda's fierce 2-6, 6-2, 7-6 (7-4) triumph, Andover's other two points came at first singles and second doubles.

MVC Player-of-the-Year Heather Young scored a decisive 6-1, 6-2 victory over Maria Cutler, while Rebecca Parks and Emily Wilner battled past Wakefield's Audrey Mully and Susan Bogod 6-2, 7-5.

Cindy Su dropped a 6-4, 6-3 decision to Molly Coursey at third singles, and the No. 1 AHS doubles' tandem of Andrea Marvin and Meghan Pauley lost 6-2, 6-3 to Hillary Cutler and Bridgit Dougherty.

Middlesex League member Wakefield had ousted MVC team Lowell 5-0 in a preliminary round match, while No. 3 seed Andover received an early bye.

Tournament Quarterfinal

Acton-Boxboro women 3 Andover 2

Twenty-four hours after the Wakefield win the Lady Warriors did not have a full squad on hand for the start of the quarterfinal round match, necessitating some lineup changes, and Dual County League member Acton-Boxboro took full advantage of the situation.

The Colonials, 14-4, had defeated Waltham 4-1 in a first-round match the day before.

Andover's two points came at first and second singles, where steady Heather Young and Lauren Roda won in straight sets.

Young trampled Liz Herbert 6-1, 6-3 and Roda continued her clutch tourney play with a 6-4, 6-2 triumph over Andrea Lang.

A-B won the point at third singles when Katie Drew, who improved to 16-1 this season, defeated Cindy Su 6-4, 6-0.

The Colonials swept the doubles in straight sets, with the No. 1 tandem of Karen Martin and Beth Kaduboski improving to 16-2 with a 6-1, 6-3 conquest of Andover's Meghan Pauley and Emily Wilner.

Jenn Mikkola and Andrea Frolick collected the third Acton-Boxboro point with a 6-0, 6-3 decision over AHS junior Ryoko Matsuura and freshman Andrea Wegner.

MIAA Tournament First Round

Andover men 5 Peabody 0

The Golden Warriors swept everything in straight sets as they completely dismantled Greater Boston League member Peabody in just over one hour at the Andover High courts.

The winners dropped only seven games in the three singles matches.

Mike Stein hammered the Tanners' Dave Kres 6-2, 6-1, Kurt Dahlstrand nailed Bill Kang 6-3, 6-1, and Ross Fenton drilled Todd Goldstein 6-0, 6-0.

In doubles, Ravi Tharisiy and Marc Formichella clipped Peabody's Adam Troupe and Scott Klein 6-1, 6-2, while Andy Ravens and Dave Gutstein bageled Greg Stuart and Ryan Dunn 6-0, 6-0.

Tournament Quarterfinal

Newton South men 4 Andover 1

Nemesis Newton South bounced the AHS men from the tourney for the third straight year in the same round.

The Lions ousted Andover 4-1 in 1994 and eliminated the locals 3-2 last spring.

This time around the only Golden Warriors' point came at third singles where Ross Fenton easily handled Josh Ulman 6-4, 6-1.

Kurt Dahlstrand started strongly against Newton South freshman Alex Wong, winning the first set 6-1, but Wong regrouped and grabbed the next two sets 6-4, 6-3 to take the match.

Mike Stein lost for just the second time this season, bowing to another of the state's premiere singles players as South No. 1 Reeve Seagal was a 6-3, 6-0 victor.

The Dual County League champs, 18-1 overall after this win, swept the doubles in straight sets.

Joshua Beer and Dave Klein defeated Ravi Tharisiy and Marc Formichella 6-3, 6-0, while Joshua Altschuler and Jeff Levin topped Andy Ravens and Dave Gutstein 6-2, 6-2.

Newton South's reward for winning was a semifinal match earlier this week against top-seed St. John's Prep, the only other team to beat Andover (3-0).

Regular Season

Andover men 5 Central Catholic 0

The MVC champion Golden Warriors completed their second straight season in which every league match was a 5-0 shutout.

In the CCHS finale, repeat league Player-of-the-Year Mike Stein completed the MVC campaign undefeated with a 6-1, 6-2 victory over the Red Raiders' All-Conference choice Wayne Slattery at first singles.

Kurt Dahlstrand also finished with a perfect league record following his 6-3, 6-2 dispatch of Orlando Mora at second singles.

Ravi Tharisiy was challenged in the second set but still authored a 6-0, 7-5 sweep of Joel Brain at third singles.

In doubles play, Dave Sullivan and Joel Elzweig toppled Jim Belcastro and George Thompson 6-3, 6-1 at No. 1.

Seniors Mike Wellikoff and Jay Levine dominated and then struggled with Central's Frank DeFusco and David Hall in a 6-0, 7-5 triumph at No. 2.

Andover women 5 Methuen 0

Second doubles was the only competitive match as the Lady Warriors completed a perfect 14-0 regular season with their seventh 5-0 victory of the campaign.

Two-time Player-of-the-Year Heather Young remained unbeaten through three seasons of league play with a 6-0, 6-1 sprint past the Rangers' Rebecca DelDuca.

Lauren Roda was nearly as efficient at second singles with a 6-0, 6-2 romp past Sarita Patel, and junior Catherine Bakulski rolled to a 6-0, 6-1 decision over Kathy Perry at third singles.

The sophomore tandem of Rebecca Parks and Emily Wilner coasted past Methuen's Jenna Pacheco and Jen Ata 6-2, 6-1 at first doubles.

Freshmen Caitlin Burke and Nicole Menschel played the big points very well as they scored a tough 7-5, 6-4 victory over Colleen Lynch and Sarah Busby at second doubles to preserve the shutout.

WHEN YOU GET YOUR ESTIMATED CLOSING COSTS

There is a federal law which requires mortgage lenders to give prospective buyers an itemized, "good-faith" estimate of their closing costs. Sometimes buyers arrive at the closing with this document firmly clutched against their chests, and proceed to question each item on the form that does not match perfectly.

These "good-faith" estimates are just that - estimates. The lender's charges will be fairly accurate, but the charges for attorneys, termite inspections, title insurance, and other items that appear on the settlement sheet may be a little bit different. Some prorated items, such as taxes or homeowner's association fees, will also be different if you don't close on the date that was used to calculate the estimate. The purpose of the disclosure law is to give you a good idea of how much you should bring to the closing table. But the estimate you are given won't be to the penny - probably not even to the dollar!
